1966 REFLECTOR VOL. XXVIII
CUMBERLAND HIGH SCHOOL
CUMBERLAND, RHODE ISLAND

DEDICATION

It is with much zeal and devotion that Mr. Bernard F. Norton has served the people of Cumberland during the past thirty-one years. He has worked diligently as superintendent of schools executing his authority with the best interests of the school system and the students at heart. The residents of this town and those beyond these limits have admired and respected his conscientious efforts throughout his career. They now sadly watch as this fine man completes his long hours of duty.

In appreciation for his unselfish labors, we, the members of the Class of 1966, dedicate to Mr. Norton this edition of the REFLECTOR.

FOREWORD

Diamond Hill was named by the early settlers who thought that the hills were rich with diamonds. Later inhabitants discovered that they had mistaken quartz for the precious gems. Today Diamond Hill holds for us another kind of hidden treasure, for it has become Cumberland's foremost attraction. For many years it was the only ski resort in the state, and in recent times it has become a state park. The Summer Music Festivals held here attract thousands of appreciative listeners every year. Cumberland High students can derive recreation and inspiration from this scenic reservation any season of the year. From time immemorial men have lifted their eyes to the hills in their quest for the divine. The setting of our lives has influenced the course of our high school education as reflected in the pages of this edition of the REFLECTOR.

SCHOOL LIFE

Just as these toboganeers fly down Diamond Hill, so our days at Cumberland High School seemed to fly by. Each day prepared us more in our long climb up the hill of high school education. From the first bell our days were filled with interesting and varied classes. Also, scattered throughout the year were enjoyable assembly programs, class meetings, and special after school events. After the two o'clock bell many clubs met to plan their yearly programs, special classes and discussion groups gathered, and athletes began their rigorous practices.

OUR SCHOOL is the center for a whirlwind of activity in scholastic, athletic, and extracurricular endeavors. For five years this building has served us well as a place of learning. Now the school population is beginning to outgrow these facilities.

Throughout the year Cumberland students

WATCH OUT! is the frenzied cry as students mob the hallway on their way out to catch the bus.

"GEOMETRY'S EASY," says Susan Dufort as she explains that angle four equals angle (?) to John Martin.

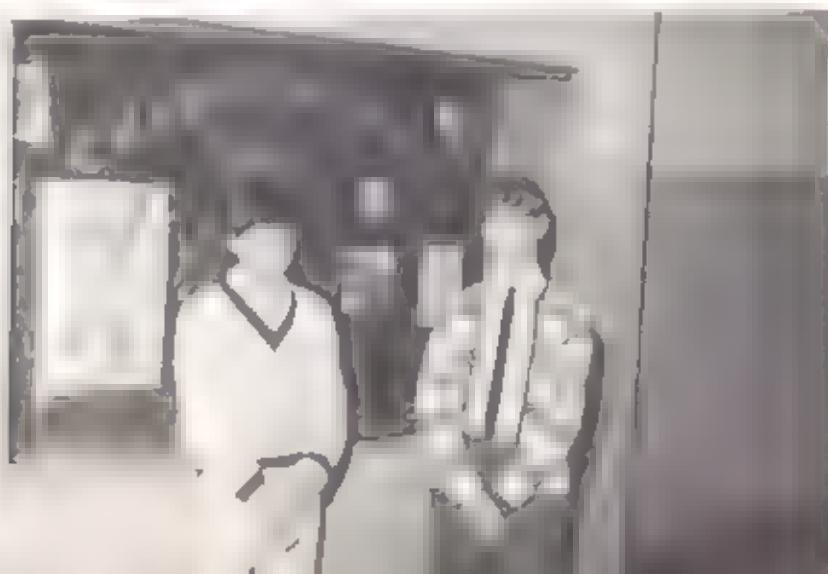

"ONE CUP OF MILK" reads Janet Lane as Carol Winarski and Susan Valiquette prepare a meal in a home economics class.

excell in many scholastic and athletic endeavors

ACTIVELY ENGAGED in research for their Rhode Island history class, these students take advantage of the extensive library resources available at Cumberland.

OUR TWO TOP track stars, Richard McLaughlin and Frederick Gashen, stand proudly before a showcase depicting the achievements of their team.

UNDERMANNED HOCKEY TEAM came through this year with their best record yet coach Larry Kish provides the needed inspiration between periods.

A queen is crowned at homecoming game

HOMECOMING QUEEN, Karen LaRose, poses with the runners up: Donna Kim and Margaret Campagni in rear are Dolores Skrzyniak, Roberta Mihal and Linda Jackson.

PROUDLY MARCHING onto the field to be crowned is newly elected Homecoming Queen Karen LaRose, extreme right, and her court.

PRESENTING ROSES to Homecoming Queen Karen LaRose is David Ferreira, senior council president, as members of her court offer congratulations.

Every day Cumberland High School students participate in a wide variety of activities in a short period of time. They begin their day fittingly with a moment of silent prayer and a tribute to our country. Senior Council members lead this program and end it with a thought for the day. Mr. Charland then begins his daily recital of the long list of announcements. Classes meet, using both traditional and modern methods.

Numerous assemblies held from September to June are a pleasant diversion from the day-to-day routine. Their topics are varied and interesting, ranging from discussions about political extremists to lectures on scientific subjects. Assemblies are also an occasion to reward worthy scholars and athletes. On one occasion varsity letters were awarded; while at another assembly deserving seniors received their National Honor Society certificates and the president of the Fraternal Order of Police of Cumberland presented to Richard Sutcliffe the John F. Kennedy Award for the outstanding football player-scholar of the year. Assemblies were also called for class meetings.

The annual high school bowl is always a great success. This year the senior team won first place for the second consecutive year. Representing the seniors were Justine Banik, David Bullard, Neil Gomberg and Frank Lind. In any case, the students enjoyed the assemblies and looked forward to them.

AS CHAMPIONS in the High School Bowl, the seniors receive a trophy from the vice principal, Mr. Thomas Skahan. Members of the senior team are Neil Gomberg, Justine Banik, David Bullard, and Frank Lind.

INDIVIDUAL AWARD for the best achievement in the High School Bowl went to Stephen Holden. Miss Rosemary Ball, assistant librarian, made the presentation.

Seniors are champs in the High School Bowl

ANXIOUSLY AWAITING the outcome at the High School Bowl playoffs are seniors David Bullard, Justine Banik, Frank Lind, and Neil Gomberg.

and sophomores Laura Hall, Mary Louise Villa, James Faiton, and Mary Pereira.

Students use talents in promoting school spirit

ARRANGING their pictures for an exhibit in the school library are Renee Lashanne, William McKenna, Patricia Forrest, and Ruth Marchand.

REPRODUCING section from Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel paintings for the beautification of the school foyer are David Karasnik and Frank Lind.

HOMEROOM 101A gathers around the winning display in the School Spirit Poster Contest. This competition was sponsored by the Varsity Club to boost support of the basketball team.

PREPARING to add another point to the Cumberland scorebook is "The Spider," Michael McKee, during one of the league games.

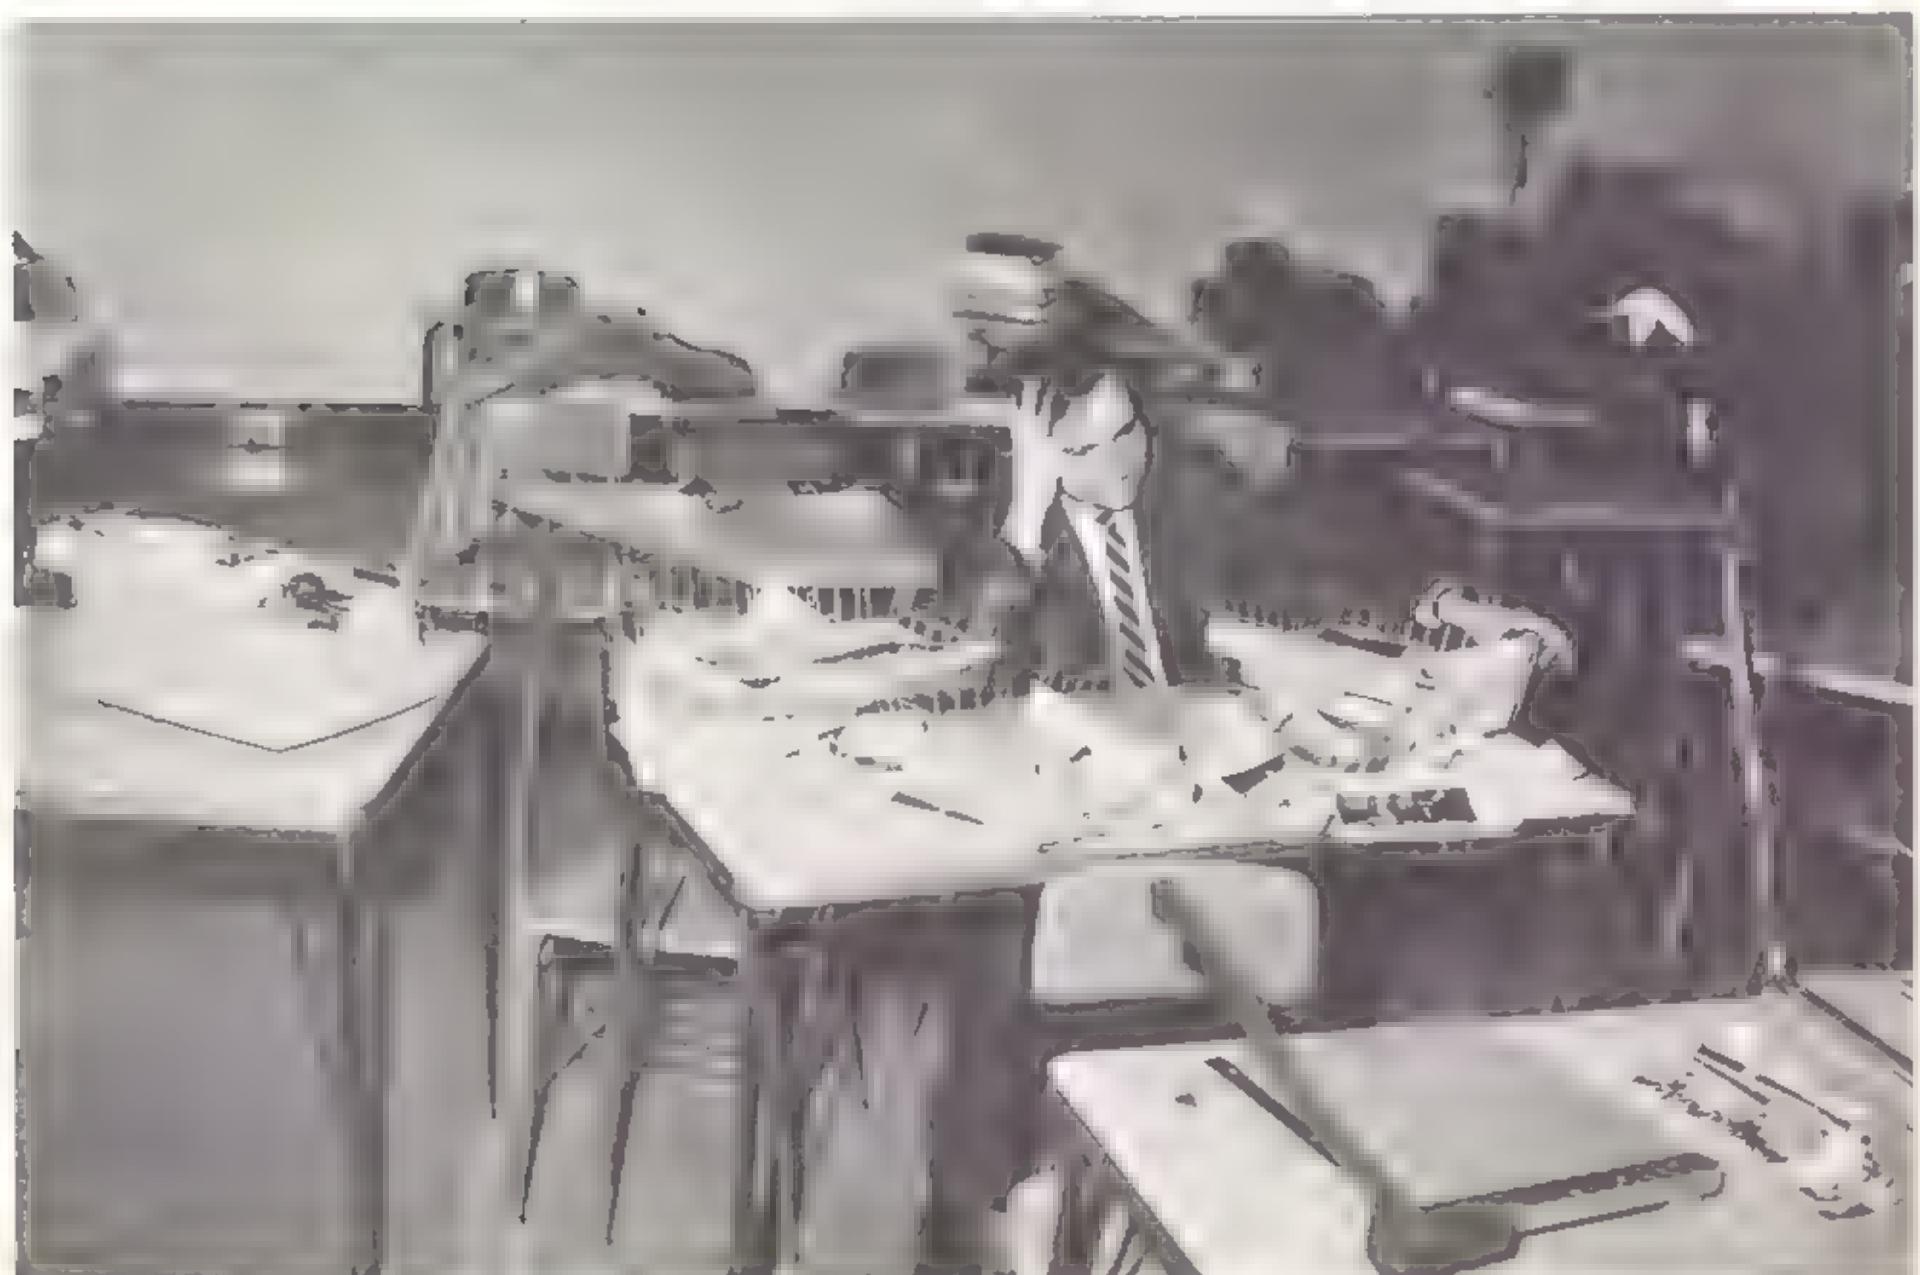

EAGERLY COUNTING the money raised from the sale of freshman beanies is class advisor, Mr. Fred Nashawaty.

WELCOMING the crowds at sports events are these guardians of the Varsity Club: Messrs. Joseph Dragon, Joseph Audet, and Robert Erdon.

Teachers assist students in school activities

CONFRONTED by the great demands of yearbook work, Mr. William Connor is caught in a moment of frustration.

WHAMMY! That's the word for the latest style in stockings worn by Cumberland High School girls.

Another variation in the daily procedures are the weekly pep rallies held during football season. At this time the weekly Kennedy medals are awarded. This year's winners were Joseph Gomes, Graham Smith, and Richard Sutcliffe (seniors); Robert Grigolevich (junior); Frank Berzozzi, Brad Dean, and Gary Kut (sophomores). Students also applaud the efforts of the outstanding soccer, hockey and track teams. Then when the football season wanes occasional basketball rallies are held to boost the morale of these fighting Clippers.

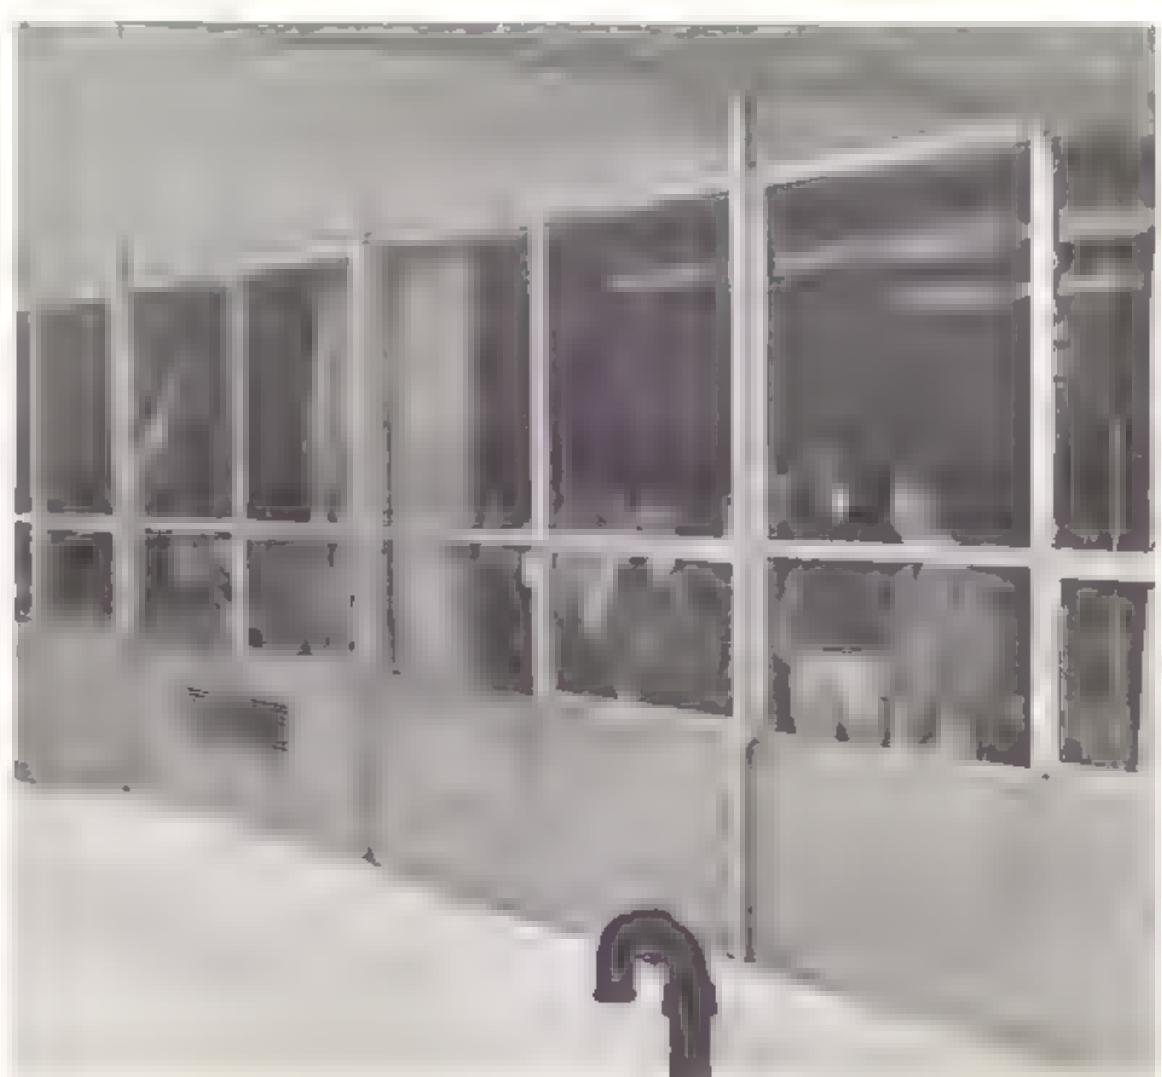

During the course of the day many students visit the ever-growing library, where they use the new time-clock machine to check in. Here they can also view the different art exhibits tastefully displayed by Miss Geddes and her students. During lunch periods pupils have an opportunity to browse in the book stalls, which contain a wide range of material for any type of reader.

Takes all kinds of crazy things to make a day

SUPERSTITION is unheeded as Ellen Simpson, Lucia Drobis, Marie Dandurand, Stephen Pina and Donna Baco take shelter from the leaky roof in the cafeteria.

REFRESHING for a few moments after a lab session, a sixth period physics class waits for the bell so they can go out and play in the snow

"HURRY UP," chant students, chas. Dorothy Berlin as she removes her cake from the machine during a break.

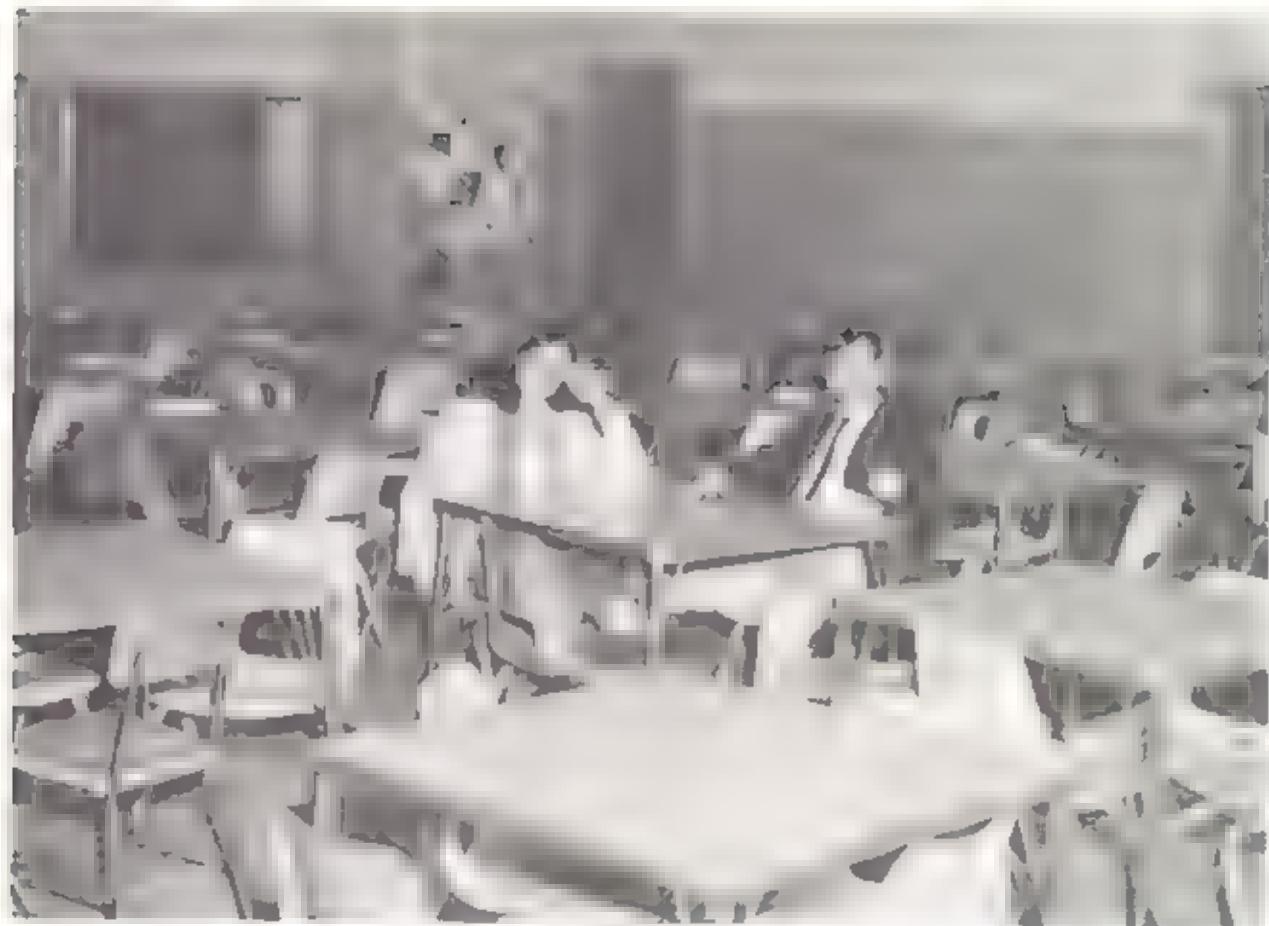

"CASH ON THE BARREL or no deal," demand Joseph Sumanski (front) and George Meaditis as they sell candy to students in the cafeteria.

Lunch periods break up school day for students

Straightening chairs and wiping tables, cafeteria aides keep the lunchroom neat and clean

INDUSTRIOUS MEMBERS of the Senior Council, Lynda Reilly and James Costigan, relax in the cafeteria following another hectic lunch period.

At two o'clock the numerous clubs and athletic groups begin their programs. And often, it is after school hours that many of the most memorable occurrences take place. The students enjoy weekly dances and each class looks forward to its social. For the first time, juniors and seniors held a Valentine Dance. The annual Homecoming game against Classical was held in November amidst great cheering by the student body. The climax of the game was the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Karen Larose.

Sports, of course, play an important role in the extracurricular activities of Cumberland High School, and students are carefully watching the progress of the construction of the new athletic stadium on the grounds across the street from the school.

Daily school life was certainly a varied combination of elements, many familiar, many new. Now in looking back at the past year, we wonder where the time went, but at the same time we look forward to the years to come and the changes they will bring with them.

Leisure time provides students with golden

PROVING that not only beings from Mars can play Martian Chess are Harry Wibanson, Susan Grayson, Mr. Norman Masse, and Mr. Ronald Lanoue.

TAKING A BREAK from the busy schedules of advertising are the members of the ad staff, Donald Fleury, Joseph Nauf, Kenneth D'Ammassa, Howard Lancaster, and Joyce Cardono.

STUDENTS leave the parking lot following classes. More and more students are now driving cars to school.

COLLEGE SEMINARS give advanced students a chance to do college level work. Attending Saturday seminars at the University of Rhode Island were First Row: Barbara O'Connor, Kathie Waterman, Lydia Texeira, Dorothy Danzell, Norman Thibeault, Stanley Polak. Second Row: Gregory Moni, John Kulig, John Krawiec, Francis Wnek, James Catterall, Neil Gomberg, and Lester Thurber.

PERSONNEL

These boys examine rocks of Diamond Hill as the early pioneers once did long ago when it was thought that the heavy veins of quartz were veins of diamonds. We should in turn examine the role our teachers have played in our lives in the last four years. Because of their wisdom and skill we are now ready to face new challenges with heads held high. We now realize that they stood before us like diamonds preparing the way for graduation. We are grateful for their knowledge, their ideas, and their help in our ascent to the heights of learning.

Capably handling the educational problems of Cumberland High, our administration strives to provide modern educational opportunities. With the growing size of the student body, more time and effort is needed to successfully plan and execute the student activities. This includes the supervision and selection of not only educational courses and facilities but also social and athletic functions.

Our school department gives the leadership for the successful running of our schools. For thirty-one years Mr. Bernard F. Norton has served as our able and dedicated superintendent of schools. Assisting him this year as acting assistant superintendent has been Mr. Robert Condon, who continues to serve as principal. Competently assisting him is Mr. Thomas Skahan, vice principal, and Miss Margaret Cullen, guidance director.

DISCUSSING problems of school administration are Mr. Robert Condon, acting assistant superintendent, Mr. Edward Mousseau, Mr. Louis Goodric, Mr. Walter Curtin, Mr. Louis Kolodziej, chairman, Mr. Anthony Silva, Mr. Paul Pressey, Mr. William Free. Superintendent of Schools Bernard F. Norton was absent from photo because of illness.

COMBINING knowledge and experience, Mr. Bernard F. Norton and Mr. Robert Condon meet several times a year in order to provide the best possible scholastic year for the students.

"WHERE SHALL I GO after high school?" is one of the questions being answered at this guidance session supervised by Mr. Walker. Receiving aid are Bruce Catterall, Antonio Miguel, William Kaplan, Albert Freis and Richard Hugensky.

Guidance geared to the needs of the individual

GUIDING students through many decisions during their four years of high school is the main role of our guidance department. Here Mr. Connell interviews John Stefanuk.

Our guidance department at Cumberland High is built on the fundamental principle that the individual is of prime importance, and all educational processes must be geared to the complete education of the individual. Working on the premise that it is their job to aid each student find his role in life are Miss Margaret Cullen, head of guidance and guidance advisors, Mr. Connell and Mr. Walker.

Since every individual has the capability of excelling in one phase of activity—scholastic, athletic, mechanical, or whatever it may be—all areas are covered by the department. Personal interviews, group guidance and numerous pamphlets and catalogues all aid in accomplishing their high goals.

Boys in Vocational Department get a working knowledge

Although all high school studies tend to prepare the student for the future, the vocational studies wing is unique in that it utilizes mostly hand application rather than book training. The freshmen are offered a sampling of the entire section's of offerings in the industrial arts curriculum.

The section is divided into four shops, each supplied with the most modern tools, appliances, and equipment. In all the shops, many hours are spent on the fundamentals so as to obtain the best foundation for the future.

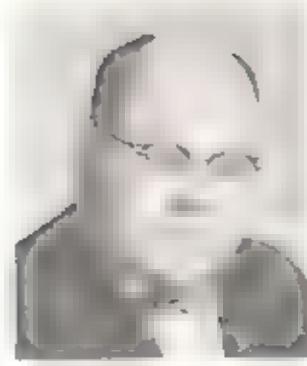

Individual expression is one of the main factors of the vocational section. The students undertake projects in woodworking or automobiles and problems in mechanical drawing and electricity.

Business education is designed both for students who plan to terminate their formal education with high school and also for those who need the essential credits for their college admittance. When high school seniors complete the business course, they have a greater chance for immediate employment upon graduation.

For those students who plan to attend college and major in business education, the department provides practical courses in bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand. Also included is a course in automation, which makes students aware of the changes that automation is bringing to our modern world. A course in business law presents to the students a basic background in the laws of our society.

for future roles

This year the adoption of team teaching in bookkeeping has been an important innovation in the business department. From the knowledge they gain in business techniques, students can perform clerical work in the main office, the audio-visual department, and the student finance office.

This program has proved satisfactory not only to students, who gain practical experience, but also to school personnel, who are substantially aided by business students.

Through these experiences, as well as through classroom instruction, business students are able to take their place in the modern business world.

new features

New faces, new books, and a new emphasis were definitely evident this year, in the English department, headed by Miss Powers.

Miss Madeline Robinson and Miss Mary Whittaker were welcomed as new additions to the staff. Welcomed back to the faculty was Mr. A. Kenneth Johnston, who took over the developmental reading course.

Hemingway's The Old Man and the Sea, Conrad's Lord Jim, and London's Call of the Wild and White Fang, became a new part of the literature curriculum. Creative writing classes this year based their works on J. N. Hook's Writing Creatively.

Greater emphasis was placed on the backgrounds of the great novels, which involved students in more intensive library research.

Matrices, vectors, and phase shifts are just some of the terms that are becoming more and more important in the world today. Accordingly, Cumberland High School has a curriculum that is designed to help the student construct a solid foundation in the areas of algebra, geometry, and analysis.

Most advanced groups now pursue the Dolciani Series. Like the previous Student Mathematics Study program, this new series provides the student with a comprehensive study of mathematics that will prepare the student for future college courses.

School offers comprehensive science program

CUMBERLAND HIGH SCHOOL has its own Sorcerer's Apprentice, Mr. Eugene Conway, who performs various experiments in the chemistry laboratory.

WHO WOULD ever think that such pretty ferns could present such difficult problems in biology? Examining the specimens are Stephen Matthews, Denise Morin, and Susan McGill.

Science has been gaining prominence in our increasingly technological world. In order to better prepare its students for the challenge of this new society, Cumberland High has evolved a more comprehensive curriculum.

Perhaps the newest innovation is the team teaching program. Under this system three teachers combine their knowledge to give ninety students a more thorough understanding of physical science. After a lecture period the pupils divide into groups of thirty for a question and answer period.

For several years now Cumberland has pioneered in the teaching of advanced science. Courses in the Biological Curriculum Study program, an advanced placement course, and the Chemical Bond Approach to chemistry have been continued. Also, advanced seniors study a course in physics that will place them on a freshman level at an engineering college.

Cumberland promotes fluency in languages

To the linguistically inclined student, the language department at Cumberland High offers innumerable opportunities. This year Spanish IV and French IV have been added to the curriculum to provide for advanced study. All classes are planned to cover the distinctive phases of the language, and teachers employ various approaches to language learning. Listening comprehension and pronunciation are stressed more than grammar in the classes.

All modern language classes meet weekly in the language laboratory. Not only do these sessions aid in perfecting speaking skills, but they also give the student a chance to listen to news tapes, literature, and music. Language students seek a better understanding of the people of these foreign countries by studying their customs, temperaments, and ideas.

HISTORICAL MAPS recreate the past as our forefathers saw it. Christopher Gaucher points out historical site to appreciative audience which includes Patricia McCusker.

To become better acquainted with America's heritage and with the cultures and civilizations of other nations is to be better prepared to act as responsible citizens in the adult world. Accordingly the Social Studies department, headed by Mrs. Barbara Tattersall, works to achieve this ideal.

Ancient history classes delved into the vast period between the Prehistoric era and the Middle Ages. American history classes, conducted by the team teaching method, studied our own great nation's record. Rhode Island history students learned of this state's past by various field trips to local historical sites. Government seminar enabled students to study and evaluate major world forms of government. Several Social Studies Clubs provide added learning experiences.

Art offers a diversified means for personal expression, individual creativity, and development of talent. To develop artistic ability, it is necessary to know the fundamental techniques of art. Students are shown the different styles of art by Miss Irene Geddes, art supervisor at Cumberland High.

All the school benefits from the work of this department. Colorful art projects brighten the corridors, and the art department contributes advice and assistance in countless school undertakings.

This year Cumberland participated in the Scholastic Art Awards contest and again entered work in the Blackstone Valley Art show at Slater Mill.

Music is an art which is enjoyable to everyone. The vocal music classes of Cumberland High offer a wide range of studies such as folk songs, classical and popular music, and music appreciation. Besides teaching the vocal aspect of singing, Mrs. Nectar Lennox has devoted time to the study of the history of music. To acquaint students with music of earlier times, a new record collection has been acquired.

For students who prefer instrumental music, Mr. Francis Carney, head of the music department, offers expert instruction to both the novice and the experienced. Students are eligible for the orchestra after one year of study. Mr. Carney provides extra help in separate practice rooms.

One ambitious project of this department completed this year was the revision of teacher catalogues of all materials available for classroom use. Also the department aided the football team by providing facilities for taking films of all games. Later films were analyzed in group sessions to help improve team play.

The school library provides an ever-expanding collection of sources of material for leisure reading and research.

New equipment in the library this year includes the large picture file and the time clock machine.

Good health ranks as high as school spirit

Today's emphasis on physical fitness is strongly felt at Cumberland High. Our physical education classes give students a well rounded program of calisthenics, sports, games, and gymnastics. The groups supervised by Mr. Anthony Chrostek and Mrs. Norma Brusko utilize all the available equipment in the modern spacious gymnasium and also have outdoor recreation sessions.

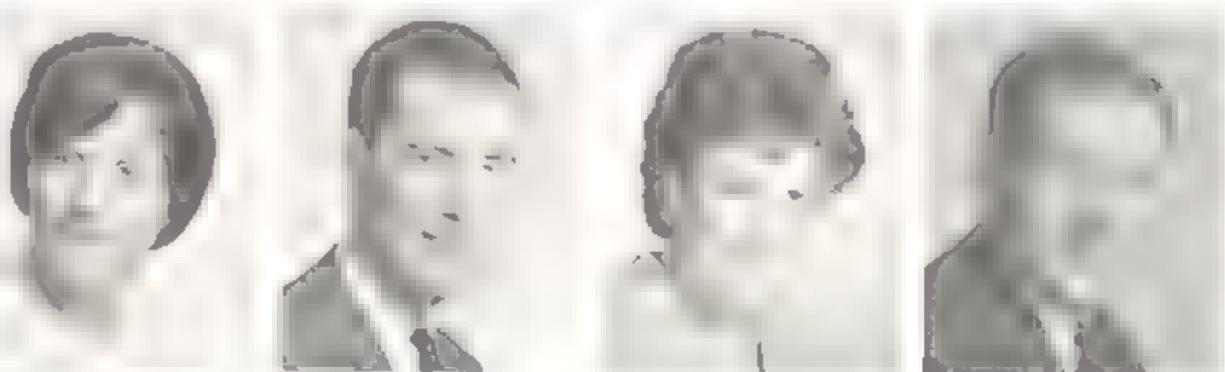

Physical education is a required subject for all freshmen and sophomores. These classes prepare students for participation in our sports program, including the annual Gym Show.

An important addition to the school staff this year is the appointment of a new school nurse, Mrs. Ruth Blazejewski. Besides looking after the health of the student body, Mrs. Blazejewski teaches a course in elementary physiology and pharmacology.

HIGH IN THE AIR is Joseph Doucette as he practices on the trampoline in a physical education class. Acting as guards are John King, Robert LaBeille, and Keith Gibbs.

VAULTING is one of the many vigorous activities included in the girls' physical education program under Mrs. Brusko, who here instructs Laura Hall.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Climbing Diamond Hill takes the sort of energy and high spirits that characterizes youth. To reach the summit of a high school education, underclassmen must also make a long, arduous journey. Along the way they must face endless assignments, exams, projects, standardized tests, and the tedium of routine. But the hard work is often relieved by moments of joy. Forming a part of every underclassman's life are memories of sports events, parties and dances, class rings, and play festivals.

FRESHMAN BEANIES at the Everlast Dance. Banners for the class, freshmen bought orders which they were selling freshman week.

Freshmen put in a productive first year

FRESHMEN now joined the school to start the Freshman Party, where they could dance and have fun.

Freshmen are supposed to be enthusiastic, but this year's class really made their presence felt here at Cumberland quite early. In class spirit freshmen were second to none as they ardently supported their teams and feverishly participated in activities.

Adapting to high school is usually difficult for ninth-graders, but these freshmen really got into the swing of things.

Helping to give them a sense of class unity was the Freshmen Party held in the school gymnasium on November 6. This program gave freshmen a chance to have fun and get to know one another at the same time.

Starting out at the bottom, freshmen needed to add money to their treasury. Class advisor, Mr. Fred Nashawaty, came up with an unusual suggestion for raising funds: buy a beanie!

During Freshman Week members of the class sported blue and white beanies. For a time beanies became a regular fad at Cumberland.

A class with all this ingenuity and ambition needed able leaders to run them. Elected to serve the freshmen were Kathleen Schofield, president; Daniel McKee, vice-president; Arleen Thompson, secretary; Linda Corredora, treasurer; and Janice Rapp, social chairman.

'Autumn Leaves' chosen as theme of Soph Hop

SOPHOMORE OFFICERS elected to represent their class are Philip Rapp, president; John McKee, vice president; William McKenna, treasurer; Donna Smith, secretary; and Gayle Grayson, social chairman.

Sophomores began their second year of high school with their first semi-formal dance. The theme of the Sophomore Hop was "Autumn Leaves," which was depicted well by the decorations. For their centerpiece the sophomores chose a pony cart surrounded by pumpkins, hay, leaves and a strawman. This cart not only served as a centerpiece but also was used as the throne of the princess, Eileen Angell.

Aside from social events, the sophomores also shone in sports. They constituted the majority of our Junior Varsity team players and also a great portion of the varsity teams. In fact three sophomores were awarded the John F. Kennedy medal for their outstanding performances in varsity football.

Besides being socially and athletically inclined, the Class of 1968 also proved to be high in scholastic ratings. In the December High School Bowl, patterned on the television College Bowl, the sophomores defeated the freshmen and in a close game lost to the seniors.

In a dramatic vein, the sophomores also did well, winning Cumberland's annual One Act Play Festival. The play was entitled SOPHOMORE HOP PRINCESS, Eileen Angell, rides in an old-fashioned pony cart with Michael Cabral as her escort.

"The Wonder Hat," a harlequinade. The actors were A. Howland Hartley, Donna Smith, John McKee, James Patton, and Susan Dufort. In addition to choosing the sophomore play as best, the judges also awarded A. Howland Hartley the Best Actor award and named Donna Smith as one of the outstanding actresses of the festival.

The newly elected class officers for the class of 1968 assumed a heavy responsibility, for a short time after the elections the hop was held. Philip Rapp was elected president; John McKee, vice president; Donna Smith, secretary; Stephanie Karas, treasurer; and Gayle Grayson, social chairman.

Months of anxious anticipation precede May prom

CHECKING the latest payments, this year's Ring Committee keeps a watchful eye on finances. Working on receipts are First Row: Paul Alves, Donna Leach, Ellen Sun, and Marilyn Preston; Deborah Danzell, chairman. Second Row: Raymond Bertrand, James Catterall, Joyce Jackson, Suzanne McGee, William Flynn, and Lester Thayer.

JUNIORS provided the necessary spark for this year's varsity basketball team. Boosting class spirit are Antonio Fonte, Michael McKee, John Krawiec, and Paul Alves.

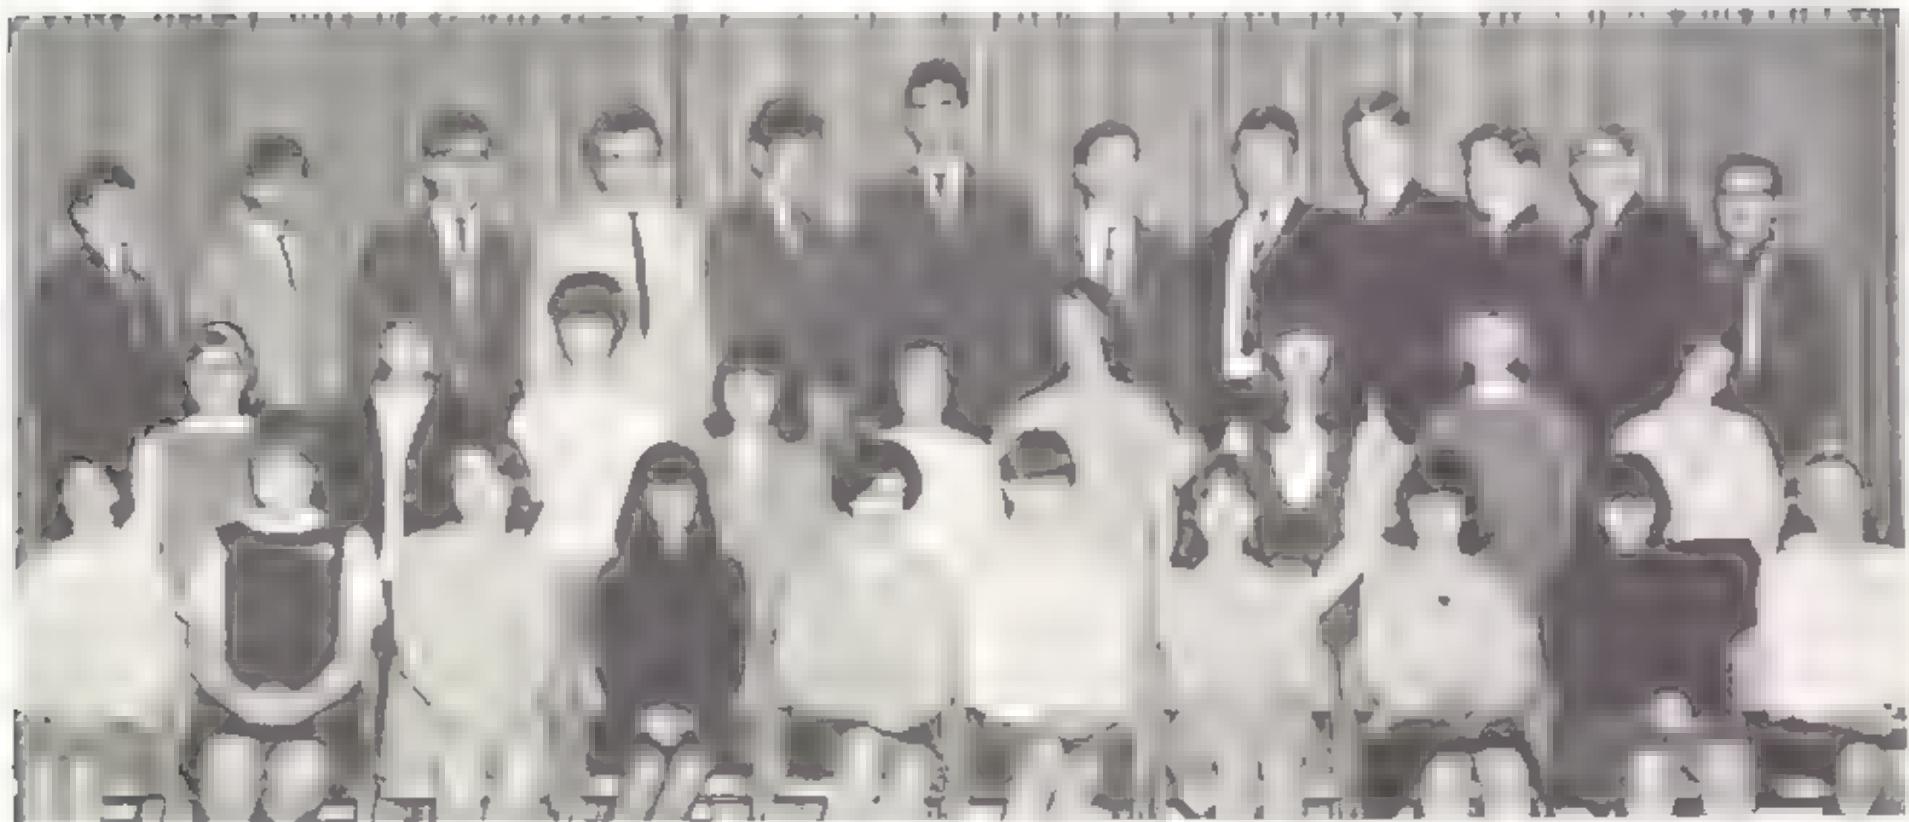

As juniors, the Class of 1967 found that their new prestige as upperclassmen was accompanied by a rigorous schedule.

College catalogues and bulletins and tests, such as the S.A.T., the N.M.S.Q.T., and the College Boards, filled the thoughts of most college preparatory students. Thirteen juniors participated in the Saturday Seminar courses at the University of Rhode Island. Not just scholastically, but adept in every facet of school life, juniors demonstrated their maturity. They possessed a determined school spirit and supported the junior-strong basketball team.

Juniors displayed still another phase of their talent in the February One-Act Play Festival. Their production, "The Infanta", directed by Miss Aileen Burke, was well-received by the audience. The arrival of May brought with it the long awaited events of the year—the Junior Prom and the class ring presentations, both of which were very successfully arranged with the guidance of the junior class advisor, Mr Austin O'Toole, and the class ring advisor, Miss Margaret Glancy.

Credit is due also to the deserving class officers, Glenn McCusker, president; Michael Roy, vice-president; Jane Ward, secretary; Marilyn Preston, treasurer; and Kathy McCourt, social chairman, who led the Class of 1967 through a memorable, as well as a meaningful, junior year.

climaxes third year of high school achievement

SENIORS

Diamond Hill Park offers a picturesque setting for a sociable stroll on a sunny afternoon. At times like this we can dream about the memories of our eventful senior year. College and jobs were foremost in our minds. But we found time for enjoyment in the Senior Dance and Reception and class play. It was a good year and let us always remember it as such. Let it be an incentive for us to strive always for the best.

Miss Earlene Mara

From the very beginning of September, the days of our senior year were filled with many activities and mounting excitement. Class officers were elected after much fun-filled campaigning: Mark Oakley, president, Margaret Campopiano, vice-president, Lorraine Cadoret, secretary; and Patricia Mercier, social chairman, advised by Mr. Edward Hogan.

In December nearly three-thousand people enjoyed the gay and lively performance of the class play, The Wizard of Oz, directed by Mrs. Ann Whealey.

During the second half of the year deserving seniors were notified of their admittance to the National Honor Society and shortly after to the Rhode Island Honor Society. Honored by being selected as Junior Rotarians and Quotarians were Elaine Dube, Mary Howes, David Bullard, and Mark Oakley. Also Betty Patenaude won the Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year Award.

Finally in June exams were over and too soon the lovely reception became only a memory. Class night and commencement exercises were all that remained to climax our four years in Cumberland High School.

Seniors recreate magic of 'The Wizard of Oz'

"WE'RE OFF to see the Wizard," sing the Cowardly Lion, the Scarecrow, Dorothy, and the Tin Man. Portraying the famous characters from Oz are Craig Johnson, Karl Marzocchi, Lynn Hadfield, and Alex Thompson during a performance of the senior play.

PRESENTING a badge of courage to the cowardly lion in the Wizard of Oz, as the lion's companions and the ladies of Emerald City watch with approval.

Producing The Wizard of Oz was an experience that seniors will never forget. Both cast and crew rehearsed every available minute in order to have the most professional play possible. Setting the pace that produced such an acclaimed production were three dedicated women: Mrs. Whouley, dramatics coach; Mrs. Lennox, music coach; and Miss Pelchat, stage director.

The immortal story of Dorothy's adventure in Oz came alive through the antics of Lynn Hadfield, as Dorothy; Craig Johnson, as the Lion; Alex Thompson, as the Tinman; and Karl Marzocchi, as the Scarecrow.

RICHARD STUCHLIFFE receives the J. Br. F. Kennedy award for the year's best football player from Mr. Skahan. Weekly awards are also presented to outstanding players.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. JAMES LUIZ

Seniors dedicate this section of the yearbook to their beloved teacher, Mr. James F. Luiz. Teacher at Cumberland for eleven years, head of our language department, and this year our first coach of soccer, Mr. Luiz won the admiration and respect of his students and colleagues alike. His untimely death has deprived us of a sincerely dedicated friend and educator.

ORGANIZATIONS

Each summer Diamond Hill provides a touch of culture to Cumberland through the Sunday Music Festival. The cultural life of Cumberland students is enriched by these concerts as well as by the vast number of school organizations. The students' culture is broadened by the many "future" clubs, science clubs, and "honor" clubs. Each is designed to provide the student with a well-rounded program. Regular meetings, field trips, community projects, concerts, experiments, films, and guest speakers are just a few of their varied features.

Yearbook staffers expend time and effort in

GIVING A PLUSH to the tons of copy prepared by the yearbook literary staff are REFLECTOR writers David Bullard, Christine Stuczak, Sharon Lanoue, Mary Howes, Kathleen Carlin, Dolores Bonin, and Pamela Norman. Donald Fleury was absent for photo.

In order to produce a worthwhile year book, the REFLECTOR staff began their work during the summer months. By getting a head start on their assignments, the members of the staff were able to learn their duties and begin preparation on the book.

Planning contents of the yearbook was the first of many tasks for the industrious layout staff. To create an attractive yearbook, the staff planned photos in advance and worked out original layouts with the completed photos.

Literary staff members were confronted with the job of thinking up original ideas for club, sports, and school life write-ups. Though small in number, the writers worked diligently to meet their deadlines. Staff writers found grinding out headlines and captions to be a grueling job, but they struggled to come up with satisfactory results.

Members of the typing staff used their skill to prepare the yearbook for publication. They spent many frustrating hours turning out perfect copy.

Our yearbook subscription staff strove to increase sales of yearbooks, but did not succeed in breaking any records.

Besides the regular activities, the yearbook sponsors our paperback book store, which provides reading material for students and funds for the yearbook itself. Shopping in the book store has become a regular lunchtime activity for many students.

producing a yearbook that captures school life

WORKING on their individual class sections are the industrious members of the index and layout staff: Deborah Danzell, Deborah Campano, Susan Gosselin, and Mary T. Mo.

MANAGERS of yearbook subscriptions, Robert Ellston and Robert Tessier, take a count on the number of yearbooks sold.

Ad staff members achieve record in ad sales

TALLYING RETURNS are these promising underclassmen ad staffers: Kenneth D'Ammassa, James Catterall, W. Paul Flann, Paul Aver, Patricia McLaughlin, Joyce R. West, Dennis Leach, Patricia Guillette, and Francis Waek.

PLANNING the layout for the first edition of the Clipper, advised by Mr. George Lough, are members of the newspaper staff: Audrey Belhumeur, Susan Aldworth, and Dorene Wachowicz.

Sales of yearbook ads zoomed up to over $4000 this year. With the able leadership of Mr. Fred Nashawaty, the Yearbook Ad Staff broke all previous sales records.

For the first time this year the REFLECTOR has had underclassmen working with seniors on the staff. Eight juniors and eighteen seniors made up the ad staff, managed by Donald Fleury, assisted by Patricia Heinsohn.

Through a well organized program and a tremendous response from advertisers, the staff has provided the bulk of the funds needed. Again the yearbook has received almost unanimous support from home rooms in the purchase of home room ads.

Our school newspaper suffered some unfortunate setbacks this year and was unable to publish any issues of the Clipper. Staff members gained experience planning the paper, which it is hoped will be revived in the near future.

STUDENTS are provided a chance to participate in school government through the student council. Each week, the council meets to discuss school activities or listen to visiting speakers, such as the representative from the March of Dimes, shown here

Seniors, student councils form school government

SENIOR COUNCIL members act as adults and administrators in promoting a smoothly running school. Council members shown here are from the senior class: Eddie K. Howard, Sam McLean, Lynn Reilly, David Ferreira, Gale Casal, Patricia Gomes, Maria L. Costa, Joseph Gomes, Steven Read, Lynn Kenchel, Walter Danziger, Gale Read, James Caputo, Diane Berkoff, and Joseph Nasif.

To develop a high student morale is one of the chief objectives of the Student Council. It is through this governing body that students are able to express their views to the school administration. At weekly meetings, homeroom representatives present the opinions of those they represent.

This year's Student and Senior Councils led the March of Dimes program in the school. They took charge of placing collection boxes in all home rooms to encourage contributions.

The Senior Council is comprised of a select group of seniors who are chosen to represent their class. Their duties include supervising the seating of students at assemblies, patrolling the cafeteria, and monitoring in the corridors.

Several times during the school year, members of the council visited other schools in the state to observe their methods of school government. Also Senior Council attended meetings of the Rhode Island Student Council Convention, where they studied the functions and duties of these organizations. Also here they had a chance to learn how other schools meet their problems and what special projects other councils have sponsored.

Officers of the Senior Council were David Ferreira, president; Gale Read, vice-president; Lynda Reilly, secretary; Joseph Gomes, treasurer and Carlo Casal, social chairman.

Seated - James Patten. Standing the stage scene are walkons and leads John McKee, Susan Dufort, and Howland Hartley.

All four drama classes have as their major purpose to develop stage craft to offer experience to the many students who take an interest in acting.

At this year's One-Act Play Festival, held at the school on February 5, each class presented a one-act play. The sophomore class, under the direction of Miss Mary Whittaker, was presented the award for the most outstanding production. The play, "The Wonder Hat" by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, starred James Patton, John McKee, Howland Hartley, Susan Dufort, and Donna Smith.

Miss Madeleine Robinson directed the freshman play "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden" by Thornton Wilder. The cast included Gail Lambert, Marilyn Louthis, Daniel Gauthier, Janet Hunter, Dennis Poirier, and Alice Lourenco.

"Infanta" by Lewy Olson was the presentation of the junior class. The cast under the direction of Miss Aileen Burke, included Margaret Cochrane, Susan Gray, Michael Marcil, Joyce Jackson, and James Catterall.

The senior class presented "Patterns" by Anne Coulter Martens. Mrs. Katherine Kennedy directed the cast; Lynn Hedfield, Pamela Thomas, Howard Lancaster, and David Bullard.

Best actor and actress awards were presented to Howland Hartley and Margaret Cochrane. Other acting awards were received by David Bullard, Michael Marcil, Susan Gray, Donna Smith, and Dennis Poirier.

The Thespian Society is under the direction of Mrs. Ann Whouley. To gain admittance to the society members must earn a designated number of points in dramatics.

At EASE for the moment are the orchestra members engaged in an afternoon practice.

Music provides entertainment for everybody

"SING OUT!" is the order as the members of the boys choir ready themselves to sing the next number.

Music as a form of expression is well developed in clubs at Cumberland. The Glee Club is divided into boys and girls sections, which are further divided into specialized groups. The entire Glee Club performs at the Spring Concert each year. The more experienced members of the Glee Club give many performances outside of school to entertain civic groups. Cumberland is noted for the number of students selected for the All State Chorus. These and other exceptional singers compose a smaller group known as the Clef Singers.

Those with proven ability in playing musical instruments are picked for service in the school orchestra. Our orchestra practices several days a week to prepare for concerts and assemblies. Here members develop their talents and learn to play as part of an ensemble. This group puts in many long hours preparing for upcoming events. The results of their labors are evident in the programs of the spring concert, class night, and graduation exercises.

READING Finn, the Pooh is the R. club will have provided Latin Club members additional practice in the language. Translating chapter one are Kathy McLaughlin, Stephen Holden, Jeanne Chevret, and Sharon Mersalkowski.

Cumberland has three clubs associated with languages studied in school. In the Latin Club students explore ancient Roman culture. During club meetings members play Latin scrabble and sing songs in Latin.

In the French Club members also sing songs and play games, but a special effort is made to develop conversational ability. Future plans include dining at a French restaurant and producing a French play.

Finally the Spanish Club stimulates interest in that language through records, films, and games.

Languages build a bridge across the seas

"WE'LL GO to France yet," is the battle cry of the French Club. Members are donating their pennies here.

Biology, chemistry, physics, gardening, rocketry

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL LAUNCH for Cumberland's space minded club. Hidden behind the cloud of smoke are officers of the Rocket Club.

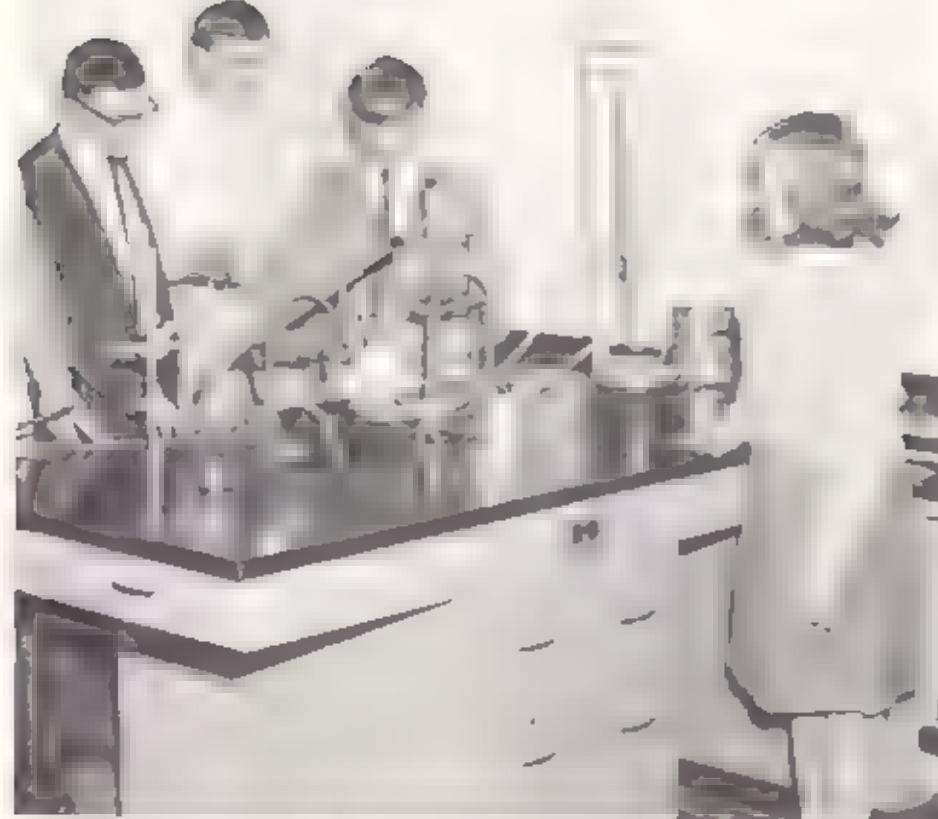

Cumberland science enthusiasts have a wide choice of science clubs to choose from. The Chemistry and Physics Clubs have similar purposes—to provide more time for scientific experimentation and to explore the more technical branches of these sciences. During the year the Chemistry Club has done experiments in reduction of hydrogen oxides, electrolysis of water, and distillation of water. The club also made trips to the Fiberglas plant and the U.S. Rubber Company.

One Cumberland club that is going places is our Rocket Club. The individual club members have built over twenty, two-stage, solid fuel rockets, and all members have worked on an eight foot, three-stage rocket.

Through the Biology Club students are able to do more laboratory work than could be covered in a regular class period. This year they have studied embryology, chromatography, and maze learning, discussed problems in ecology, and visited a science museum.

Our Home Gardening Club is responsible for the beautification of the center court. While taking care of the flowers and shrubs in the center court the members of this club gain direct knowledge of gardening techniques.

GREEN THUMBS are used in giving care to plants in the Home Garden Club by Frederick Ambeault, Charles Darling, and Robert Elston.

EFFICIENCY is acquired with actual practice in the Future Business Leaders Club by Lorraine Cadoret, Mary Ann Ais, Kathleen Taylor, Sharon McLann, and Linda Faucher.

Girls at Cumberland High have the opportunity to join the Future Homemakers Club and learn ways of becoming efficient homemakers. Freshmen have a special section in the club in which they learn the procedures and rules of the organization. Upperclassmen hold regular meetings where they discuss topics relating to sewing, cooking, and other household duties. This year the Future Homemakers have sponsored cake sales, parties, and drives for underprivileged children.

Persons planning to prepare for a career in business can join the Future Business Leaders Club. Here they learn to become secretaries and business executives. The club is divided into two sections; one group is for seniors only, and the other is composed of underclassmen. For field trips this year the members went to Bryant College in Providence and to the Prudential Center in Boston. At the end of the year the club held its annual banquet.

In the History Club members study all phases of world civilization. To make history come alive the group has journeyed to places of historical interest in and around Rhode Island. The club has viewed films on history, borrowed from the state film library and accompanied by informative lectures by guest speakers. The program for several meetings has been the discussion of historical problems.

In the Medical Technology Club the members learn the laboratory procedures and techniques employed by medical technicians in analyzing blood and other body fluids. The club uses their own members as subjects to test for blood types. The students at Cuthbert learn how to make tests of specific organs to determine certain diseases. In this club individuals gain practical knowledge under careful supervision.

Our Nurses Club provides a setting for the stimulation of interest in nursing and also teaches some of the basic principles of the profession. Girls learn about nursing through demonstrations, field trips, and guest speakers. This year the group visited a school for the deaf and Butler's Health Center. They also heard lectures on the sterilization of instruments and life in a leper colony.

A large number of students at Cumberland are interested in teaching, and therefore our Future Teachers Club is one of the largest in the school. One of the major activities of the year for the Future Teachers has been collecting clothing for a needy family in Kentucky. Another worthwhile program was singing Christmas carols for patients at the Cumberland Sanatorium. Every year senior members of the club visit local grammar schools to observe teaching procedures.

LEARNING FROM ART is the theme of the newest project in the library. Preparing pictures for exhibit are library aides Leslie McLaughlin, Nancy Ward, Denise Bissonnette, and Paula Burns.

HELPING TO ADVERTISE various school functions, Poster Club artists design interesting placards. Preparing posters for mounting are Rose Marie Turgeon, Sandra Chaplow, Christine Prazeres, Patricia Gobeille, Melissa Whitman, and Kathryn Fanning.

SPEED READING and other reading skills are developed during meetings of our Reading Club. Using the Craig Reader are Wayne Riley, Edward Mikula, and John Dean.

Assisting in clerical work and managing the circulation desk are but two of the duties of members of the Library Club. The seventy-five girls in this club have the opportunity to gain a practical knowledge of library work through participation in the organization. The highlight of the year for the Library Club was a visit to a large publishing house in New York.

Again this year Cumberland has a Reading Club to help promote an interest in reading for pleasure. Besides selecting a wide variety of books for leisure reading members also strive for the development of reading speed and accuracy with understanding. Some of the special topics studied this year were critical reading, analysis of propaganda, outline and report preparation, study of the newspaper, spelling, and development of study skills.

Cumberland has a special club devoted to producing posters for all occasions. In club sessions members learn principles of design and apply their learning in constructing posters. Posters created in this club help to publicize various scholastic, athletic, and social events.

worthy achievements in recreational activities

GROUP INSTRUCTION in the use of equipment helps .. train members of the Audio-Visual Club. Lloyd Oliver points out the operation of the filmstrip projector, James Seales demonstrates use of the overhead projector, and another group studies tape recording.

CERAMICS CLUB exhibit features useful and decorative objects produced in activity period. Admiring handiwork of the club are officers Helen Pasquale, Marcia Arnold, and Carol Rowey.

To operate the large amount of audio-visual equipment used in this school requires a number of trained equipment operators. The Audio-Visual Club trains boys to use projectors and recording machines so that there will be a continuous supply of aides in future years. Some meetings are given over to demonstrations of the operation of equipment, and others are devoted to actual use of the equipment in workshops. The director of the Audio-Visual Department supervises the instruction in club periods and selects members to serve as aides. Several films are shown as a part of the program.

Our Ceramics Club presents methods of forming and decorating ceramic ware. The group produces a wide variety of useful objects such as ashtrays, vases, candy dishes, and jewelry. In preparing these pieces of ceramics members first design their projects and then shape them in clay. Next they fire their objects in the kiln to produce bosque ware, and finally they glaze their works to enhance their appearance and make them waterproof. The club has been so popular this year that it has been necessary to form two groups.

DOING PRESSES on the weight rack Davis Korboruk struggles to complete the lift. Weight lifters acting as spotters are Charles Underwood and John Racofski.

In the Mathematics Club students can cultivate an interest in mathematics as well as keep up to date with the latest developments in the subject. During club sessions the advisor discusses problems in math and members give talks on the latest advances in the field. This year the club visited the computer center at Providence College.

Cumberland's Weightlifting Club has continued to be an active organization at the school. The club is divided into two groups. One group is primarily composed of football players and weight-event men in track, who practice to improve their strength and coordination in their chosen sport. The other group is made up of those principally interested in lifting for physical fitness and bodybuilding.

Freshmen who wish to master the fundamentals of the typewriter can participate in the Typing Club. There they can learn the keyboard and develop speed and accuracy in typing. For advanced study freshmen work on manuscript form for term papers.

of physical, technical, and academic activities

For their major project of the year the members of the Auto Club worked on restoring a 1950 Willys Jeepster. They have installed in it a new Ford engine donated to the club and have also reconditioned the braking system, body, and roof. Through direct experience the boys pick up terminology and technical knowledge of the automotive field.

Another club which bases its program on practical work is the Electronics Club. This group is responsible for the operation and repair of much of the electronics equipment in the school. This year they have worked on the public address systems in the school and on the football field. Another special project has been studying transistor circuits.

Persons who enjoy bowling as a sport or as a form of recreation can participate in the Bowling Club. A group of boys and girls has traveled to the Walnut Hill Bowl every other Thursday. There they can have fun and learn to improve their bowling techniques. At the end of the year, the top boy and girl bowler and the leading team received trophies.

GETTING READY for an afternoon of fun and enjoyment are members of the Bowling Club. Bowling here are Sandra Goevel, Richard Benoit, Susan Hebert, and Sheila Paquin.

CONCENTRATING intently on the next move are Chess Club players Donald Fleury, Frank Lind, Harry Williamson, and Edward Williamson.

Weekly sessions of the Chess Club give members a chance to engage in lively competition with fellow members. Chess players enjoy having the opportunity to match wits with opponents and to devise ingenious strategy. Besides playing among themselves, at the end of the school year members compete in a regional tournament.

The Junior Alliance Française is an organization devoted to increasing knowledge of both French language and culture throughout the school and the community. This organization meets five times annually at various schools in Rhode Island, where members sing French songs, converse in French, and listen to various guest speakers.

Cumberland's Folk Music Club, initiated last year, met this school year in the spring and fall. Meetings are held on an informal basis, and anyone is invited to perform. Several members, representing various styles of folk music, have become regular entertainers.

STUDYING UP on the operation of our government in preparation for the model legislature are Frederick Farland, Sean Coffey, and Robert Woods.

Aerodynamics is the chief topic of study in the Civil Air Patrol, where all meetings are conducted according to military etiquette. In the club all members study and practice search and rescue procedures and first aid. Outstanding cadets are sent to a flying encampment where they take further courses in survival training.

Architectural Workshop is a new club formed at Cumberland to give extra practice in mechanical drawing and to help students learn to read blueprints. Members of this club build scale models of various architectural subjects. Projects planned for the year included planning a new high school building and a field house.

Members of the Model Legislature are given the opportunity to study and participate in the operation of the state government. For one day students from all over the state take the place of our representatives and senators by discussing and voting on current legislation.

SPORTS

Making good use of the fine facilities available at Diamond Hill are these four energetic skiers. They also demonstrate the need for a well-balanced scholastic program. The students of Cumberland High School are fortunate in having such a program available to them. The excellent gym facilities and the wide variety of sports provide challenges to all. The members of freshman, junior varsity, and varsity teams learn to value good sportsmanship as much as victory. Interscholastic competition brings out the school spirit of the student body.

Second year of Class B schedule sees

VARSITY GRIDDERS representing Cumberland in second class B season were First Row: Graham Smith, Joseph Gomes, Richard Sutchiffe, William Smiley, James M. K. Clark. Cumberland opened its second Class-B season this year in fine fashion, although they were badly hurt by graduation. They won their first four encounters against Burrillville, Warren, Lincoln, and West Warwick. Head coach Peter Dalpe gambled on youth rather than experience on the defensive and offensive lines. With an experienced backfield, Cumberland had almost all sophomores and juniors on the line.

To their credit the Clippers came out on top in all their non-league games. Although they won only one of their league games, Cumberland looked strong in all their games with the exception of those against St. Raphael and Central where the small and light Clippers were simply overpowered.

In this year's annual Thanksgiving Day game, Cumberland outplayed the bigger and stronger Woonsocket, but a series of bad breaks brought them down to defeat.

Again this year the Cumberland Fraternal Order of Police awarded a weekly John F. Kennedy Memorial award for outstanding performance.

Cumberland High's Junior Varsity Football Team again prepared its underclassmen for future duty on the varsity squad. Despite a losing record, the team provided formidable opposition for other area schools. Their three and three won-lost record was quite creditable as many underclassmen were pressed into steady service on the Varsity.

Coach Robert Perreault, who transferred from St. Raphael Academy, was quite pleased with the results attained by his first team. The team awarded their new coach with a 20-0 victory over his

New coaches spur on freshman gridders

IN BLUR OF ACTION, freshman quarterback Robert Hebert (center rear), prepares to handoff in freshman practice.

To build men and more exactly to build future varsity stars was the main aspect of the Freshman Football Team. This year the freshmen worked under the whip cracking of new coaches James Sullivan and Gerald Morrisseau. The Clipper freshmen finished the season on the short end of the won-lost record but posted impressive victories against Johnston and St. Raphael. The young gridders gained valuable knowledge for future years of varsity participation.

The freshmen put in almost as much time each day as the varsity did. As in previous years, the many would-be freshmen stars had their ranks quickly thinned by the opening days of hard practice.

Standouts for this year's freshmen team were Michael Boudreau, Bruce Marshall, James MacManus, John Scott, and Robert Benoit.

Cross Country team shines in the big races

WINNER of Columbus Day race, Richard McLaughlin, strides across the finish line in the driving rain. Richard triumphed over formidable statewide competition

COACH GEDERMAN quips with Richard McLaughlin to help relieve tension of tough cross country meet.

This year's Cross Country Team was our best ever. Their 8-1 record and second place finishes in both the Northern Division and the Class B Championships stand as proof of this fact.

Truly superlative efforts were turned in this season by Richard McLaughlin and Fred Gaschen, both of whom were awarded berths on the All State second team and Class B Division first team. In addition to this, McLaughlin finished first in the all important Columbus Day Road Race.

Coach Harris Gederman will have almost the entire squad returning for action next year.

Clipper skiers enlarge state schedule

Cumberland High School's Ski Team finished their third season of competition on the varsity level. As always Cumberland produced excellent skiers, since many students were able to put in almost daily practice at nearby Diamond Hill.

Mr. Joseph Burroughs, with able help from his wife Jan, again coached the varsity team. Turning in outstanding performances for the Ski Team were Fred Egan, William Oakland, Bradford Jencks, Susan Arnold, Alana Smith, and Christine Psybyski. For the third year in a row, Cumberland has captured the Rhode Island state championships. Cumberland remains undefeated in state skiing competition.

SKIING ENTHUSIAST Gay Harmon grits her teeth and sets her poles for a fast schuss on the slopes.

Again this year Cumberland entered an invitational meet with Wellesley, Massachusetts, but dropped a close decision to the Bay Staters.

A number of Cumberland skiers entered a meet sponsored by the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association at North Conway, New Hampshire. In the Rhode Island section, senior Thomas Egan and freshman Alana Smith won the senior men's and junior girls' titles respectively.

The league has been expanded this season with Chariho entering the circuit as the fourth team. With the expanded league and available facilities, Cumberland should continue their standing in ski circles.

ALL CLASSES are represented on the ski team. Front—David Michel readies for a long run through the white stuff.

After four years of hard times, the Cumberland High Hockey Team finally turned the proper side in the won-lost column. Starting with a rousing 8-0 victory over North Providence in the Round Robin, the Clippers then rolled on to easy victories over Cranston West and Coventry and two very close games with East Providence and Warwick.

Early morning practices were again the fashion as the team spent many of the wee hours at the Mount St. Charles arena in Woonsocket. A former All-American himself, coach Larry Kish managed to build great spirit in the small team.

Often with only eleven players in uniform, Mr. Kish had to rely on the experience of the veteran members. Co-captains David Ferreira and Paul Coletta along with junior center David Moriarty made up the first line. Tending goal for the Clippers this year was senior James Costigan. The second forward line was composed of George Gomes, Thomas Menard, and Gregory Shea.

This rugged rebuilding year saw development

This year's varsity team proved to be a tough and able competitor whether in victory or defeat. The Clippers suffered from lack of experience, for the starting team consisted of one sophomore and four juniors.

This rebuilding year saw Cumberland make its presence known in an especially tough Class B division. Skillfully coached by Mr. Joseph Dragon, the Clippers proved to be a well disciplined ball club. Our fast breaking team stunned a few of its rivals. Two such cases were their upset victories over Central Falls and Classical.

Standouts for the varsity were skillful ball handler and shooter Paul Alves and strong rebounder and shooter Robert Passano, both juniors. Graduating seniors, who seasoned the squad, were Michael Dufort, Al Ereio, James Jacinto, and John Stefanik.

Though there were more losses than wins, the Clippers never lost their determined spirit. This team overcame disadvantages in both height and experience by practicing diligently and molding themselves into a smoothly operating club.

Besides the fast break trademark, Cumberland this year was noted for team work and sportsmanship.

GIVING his all after a long day of practice is Paul Alves. Also assisting the outcome are Robert Passano (43) and Cesar Ferreira (21).

ONLY SENIOR VARSITY basketball members on team comprise first row here: John Stefanik, Albert Eresio, Michael Dufort. Second Row: Stephen Volonte (manager), Terrence Tucker, William Jackson.

J.V. hoopsters prove size isn't everything

LEADING THE CHARGE downcourt against West Warwick is Thomas Goryl (24), backed by John Gomes and Paul Sweetman.

This year's Junior Varsity Basketball team proved to be a formidable opponent to the other members of the Class B schedule. They compiled a 14 and 6 record despite the fact that some would-be J.V.'s were pressed into service on the senior-sparse varsity team. Solid defense and excellent shooting were the trademarks of this successful team. Another factor which played no small part in the team's success was the able job done by coach John DeGoes.

Outstanding contributions were turned in game after game by Antonio Fonte, later promoted to the varsity, Stephen Crowley, Thomas O'Connor, Terrence Tucker, and Thomas Goryl.

This team rose to the occasion more often than not, and the members gained much experience along the way.

This year's Freshman Basketball team was one of the best ever to play on a Cumberland High court. Their greatest feat was their capturing of the Northwest Rhode Island League Championship. They ended their league play with a perfect record of ten wins and no defeats. This record is truly amazing considering the tough schedule they had to face.

The expert coaching of Mr. Robert Perrault was greatly responsible for the winning ways of the freshmen. Big contributors to all the freshmen wins were high scorers Daniel McKee, Gerald Podgurski, and John Curtin. Also, contributing with their rebounding strength were Gerald Podgurski and Robert Benoit.

Constant practice and a willingness to learn were the ingredients of this topnotch team. Perseverance and alertness along with natural ability helped this team to achieve their goal.

Increased squad adds cheering prowess

WITH HOPES of winning the junior Varsity Cheerleaders practice before a game. Ready to boost morale are First Row: Leslie McLaughlin, Denise Pierel, Grace Departhy, Gayle Gauvin, Karen Kinniburgh. Second Row: Lorna Isal, Jane Brower, Janet Allaire, Suzanne Petta, Mary Grant, and Sandra Hennick.

GO CLIPPERS GO . . . So proceeds one of the many chants used by Cumberland's high-spirited Varsity Cheerleading Team. At any of the numerous athletic events occurring during the school year, these girls may be found encouraging the teams to victory with their lively cheers.

The cheerleaders realize that as representatives of C.H.S., they must exemplify perfection in themselves and in their cheering at all times. Therefore, much time is spent after school practicing co-ordination and composing new cheers. The results of their labor are evident at all games and at various pep rallies held throughout the year.

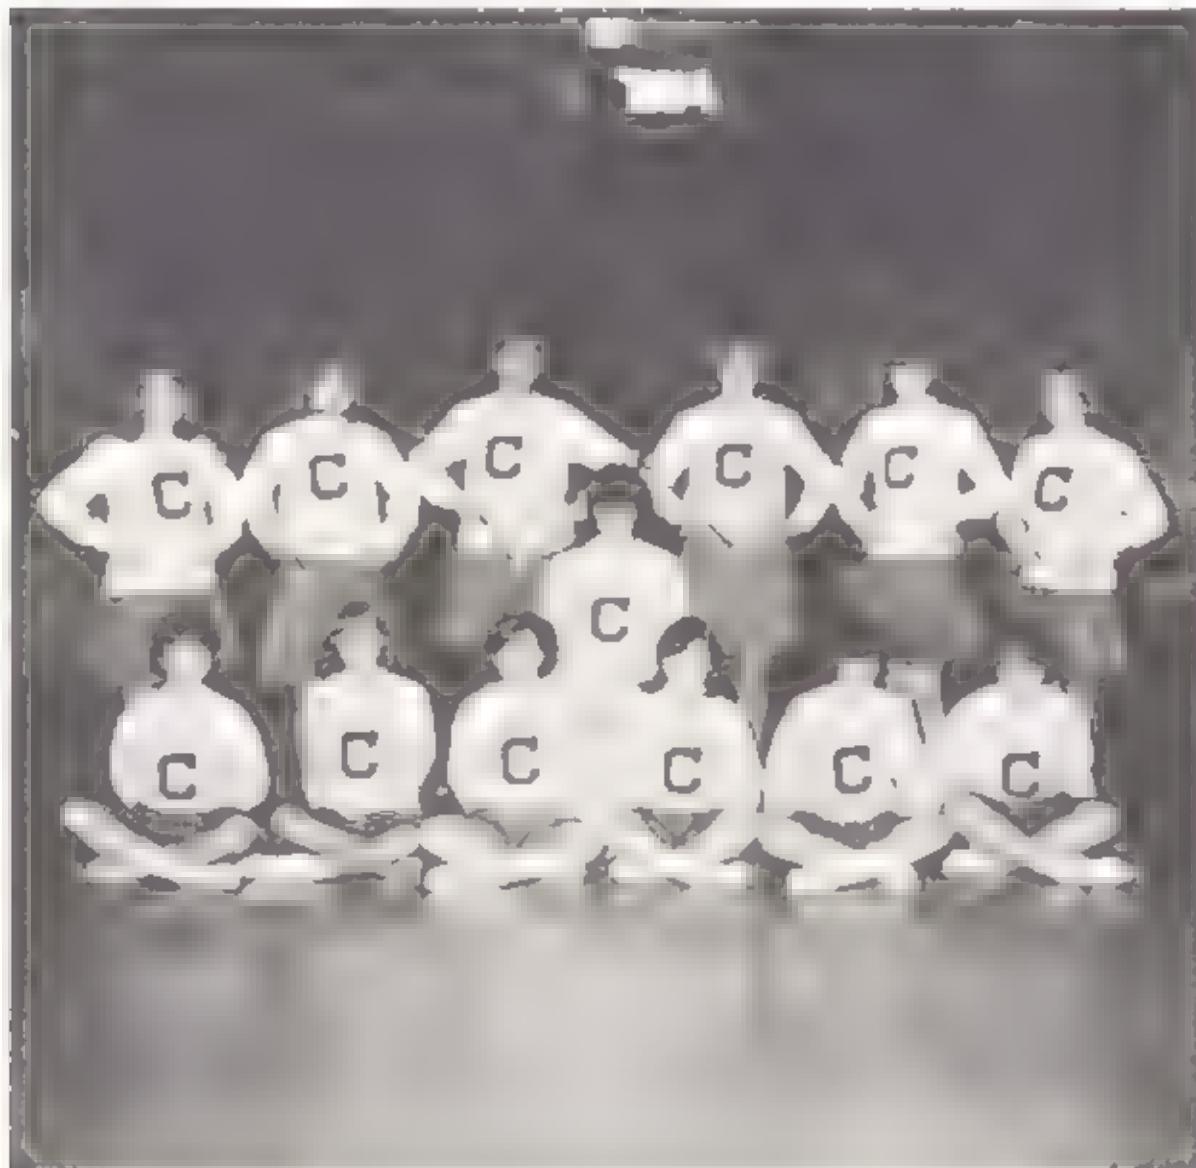

This year the varsity squad displayed new uniforms. The familiar sailor suits gave way to neat A-line jumpers and white long-sleeved blouses. With their new uniforms and their fine cheering, the Varsity Cheering squad was certainly an asset to any game.

Clipper fans are now treated to twirlers

FRESHMAN CHEERLEADING SQUAD exhibiting their fine form are (clockwise): Linda Corredore, Arlene Smith, Jeanne Mercier, Maureen Bratt, Mary Beth Free, Denise Mandeville.

PRACTICE was the key word this year with Cumberland High School's twirlers. Posing in the foyer are the members of the twirling squad. First Row: Denise Monarty, Jane LaRochelle, Linda Baldwin, Claire Carnaghan, Grace Departhy, Kathleen Taylor. Second Row: Donna Alves, (captain). Third Row: Diane Gregory, Dolores Macuga, Diane Gladu, Joyce Cadoret, and Janet Allaire.

Following the example of the Varsity Team, the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders enthusiastically provided entertainment at all J.V. games.

Tryouts for the team were held at the end of the school year, but only sophomores and juniors were eligible. The girls were judged carefully by the coaches of the various sports. Then the hard work of practicing and the fun of attending all games began. These girls deserve much praise and gratitude for their fine efforts.

Freshman cheerleaders, in their blue skirts and vests, cheered at all freshman games with the same spirit and enthusiasm that upperclassmen display. Their freshness and vigor spurred the boys on to greater efforts, while proving their success for future years as J.V. and Varsity Cheerleaders.

This year a Twirling squad, organized by Miss Lyn Fontaine, made its debut at the traditional Thanksgiving Day game in Woonsocket. The thirteen girls, led by Donna Alves, captain, spent their first year learning fundamentals.

"KEEP ON FIGHTING" command these Varsity cheerleaders during St. Raphael football game. Their many cheers spurred the players on to victory.

REPRESENTING the school in the new girls' basketball team were First Row: Linda Marotte, Claire Carnahan, Christine McQuinn (captain), Meredith Taylor, Janice Rapp. Second Row: Yvonne Cadoret, Renee Laflamme, Regina Barnett, Terry Laih, Josephine Pabalam. Third Row: Mary Pritchard, Amy Dillenbeck, Jeanne [unclear] (manager), Denise Lambert, Andree Valois, Judee McCafferty.

Despite a disappointing record, the Girls' Basketball Team has proven that they are both hard-workers and good sports. Directed by Mrs. Norma Brusko, the girls practiced many hours in the gym after school learning and perfecting their skills. Competition was keen against such schools as Chariho, Bishop Feehan, Attleboro, and Lincoln. Captain for the varsity team was Christine McGinn, while Renee Laflamme was the leader of the junior varsity.

Outstanding contributors were senior players Joan Barnett and Claire Carnahan. Sophomore Jeanne Chevrete also gave much of her time as team manager.

Though the losses outweighed the wins, the girls proved themselves to be dedicated and conscientious players.

BATTING for the C's on the tip off is Denise Lambert. Also ready for action are Joan Barnett, Patricia Cleary, Yvonne Cadore, and Linda Marotte.

This year the Girls Field Hockey team was an innovation at Cumberland. Under the supervision of Mrs. Norma Brusko, girls physical education instructor, the girls practiced many hours after school to learn the basic techniques of field hockey.

Led by captain Susan Blezard, the Clippers held high the name of Cumberland High School in all their encounters. Even though competition was keen, the team managed to outscore Attleboro and Barrington High Schools and tie teams from Chariho and Pilgrim High Schools. Though not victorious, the girls gained much experience at a tournament held at the University of Rhode Island. Mrs. Brusko and the team are looking forward to next year with optimism.

HIGH FLYING Al Ereio makes a dashing drive for the goal, as Portsmouth opponents give chase.

DEFENSEMAN Edward Williamson dogs the tracks of Portsmouth opponent at Lusitania field.

For the first time in the history of Cumberland sports, a soccer team was organized to compete in interscholastic play. The Clippers began their season on a promising note as the inexperienced team had many close contests. The team sported an encouraging record of five wins, five losses, and one tie.

Coach James Luiz seemed pleased with his team's record. Led by Captain Joseph Rebolo and Albert Ereio, second high scorer in Rhode Island, the team also played exhibition games with area college freshman.

Although the team did not have a brilliant season, it finished with enough experience to enable underclassmen to return next year with the necessary ability to build a name for Cumberland in statewide soccer circles. Sadly missed will be our deceased coach, James Luiz.

WITH ALL EYES UP, students participating in Gym Show practice their skills on the various equipment. Here Bruce Newman is practicing on the trampoline.

All students with a love for gymnastics have a chance to show their skills in the annual gym show. The students themselves are a big factor in the show. The older, more experienced participants help train underclassmen for the big night. The faculty advisors, Mrs. Norma Brusko and Mr. Anthony Chrostek, try to have students perform a large variety of gymnastic demonstrations.

Because of the informality of practice sessions, the gym show always attracts many participants, even though the work is as difficult as that in any other sport. Every year the gym show also has a large appreciative audience.

GIRLS get in the Gym Show act too. Susan Arnold and Laura Hall practice a shoulder stand with Leslie McLaughlin acting as a spotter.

ALL HANDS reach out to grab for possession of the ball. Intramural players are Patrick McVey, Bradford Jencks, Richard Antunes, John Basinger, Ronald Concilio, William Cummings, and Byron Kinniburg.

Intramurals gives boys chance to play sports

Many boys enjoyed exciting extracurricular activities in the form of the Boys Intramurals Club. Under the supervision of Mr. Anthony Chrostek, the boys engaged in many fun-filled games of basketball and touch-football. Various teams were organized which played regularly scheduled games. In each case the winner of the contest advanced to meet another victor. This process continued until finally, two teams battled it out for the championship.

Participants in this club were taught the value of good sportsmanship and fair play. Also, they developed muscular coordination and dexterity. To the members of the Boys Intramural Club, leisure time was golden, and it brought to them many hours of pleasure.

GETTING a shot off is Brad Jencks. Crowding the basket are Patrick McVey, Richard Antunes, Williams Cummings, and Byron Kinniburg

CHECKING the results of their target practice in gymnasium are Andree Valois, Meredith Taylor, and Linda Marcotte.

Intramurals provide an opportunity for girls to exercise for physical fitness while enjoying themselves in their favorite sport. Through this program, supervised by Mrs. Norma Brusko, girls physical education instructor, girls are able to choose from field hockey, basketball, softball, and archery.

The large number of candidates participating in the various areas has proven the success of the program. In the fall about fifty girls went out for field hockey, while in the winter, the basketball players numbered nearly sixty. An equal number of girls were expected to sign up for softball in the spring.

For the first time this year, after-school archery lessons were available to interested girls.

Girls have wide offerings in intramurals

SHARPENING their skills through diligent practice are members of the girls' intramural basketball team: Mary Pritchard, Renee Lafamme, and Judge McCafferty.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Costigan's Ski Shop at Diamond Hill is one of the many business establishments patronized by Cumberland High School students. In turn these business firms support our yearbook by their many contributions. This cooperation of businesses, combined with the efforts of an ambitious advertising staff and its advisor, Mr. Nashawaty, is necessary for the publication of the REFLECTOR. The rallying of home rooms to buy ads also helped to boost this year's sales beyond all previous amounts.

EPILOGUE

In winter the brook at Diamond Hill creates a scene of unexcelled beauty. This picture reflects the sense of wonder surrounding our early years. Through our high school years we strain to keep alive that spirit. The friends, the gaiety, the knowledge, and the triumph have provided us with the basis for a productive life. If we cherish the memories reflected in this book, we may scale the heights of heaven and earth ever mindful of our rich heritage.

MR. CONNOR, for your devotion and guiding efforts in the production of the 1966 REFLECTOR.

MR. NASHAWATY, for collecting more than enough money to make this yearbook possible.

MISS GEDDES, for your inspiration and advice in art work

MR. KENNETH ROWBOTTOM and MR. CLINTON MORRIS, for putting up with our hectic photo schedule.

MR. JACK BROWN, for working so conscientiously to publish the best edition ever of the REFLECTOR.

MR. SKAHAN and MR. CHARLAND, for patiently reading our reams and reams of announcements.

MAIN OFFICE and STUDENT BODY, for your good-will and co-operation.

DAVID KARBONIK, for your artistic genius in creating an original cover design.

ADVERTISERS, for your loyal financial support.

SUPPLEMENT

When the REFLECTOR goes to press in March there are still a number of important events to follow. Baseball, track, and golf teams compete for league titles in the spring. The social events of the season are the Junior Prom and Senior Reception. Class Night and graduation bring another challenging year to completion. This supplement serves as the instrument for recording these memorable events.

Cumberland baseball team makes a serious

Cumberland High's varsity baseball team enjoyed another winning season this year, but had some disappointments in losing five close games. Although not up to the precedent set by last year's division runner-up team, this year's squad collected nine wins against five losses.

Getting off to a good start with victories over Central Falls and Mount Saint Charles, the Clippers met their first setback in a game against North Providence.

Bouncing back with a victory over home town rival Lincoln, the team was disappointed by a close defeat at the hands of last year's division champions Burrillville.

After another defeat, this time against Woonsocket, sparked by new determination and vitality, they took five straight games from Sacred Heart, Central Falls, Mount Saint Charles, North Providence, and Lincoln.

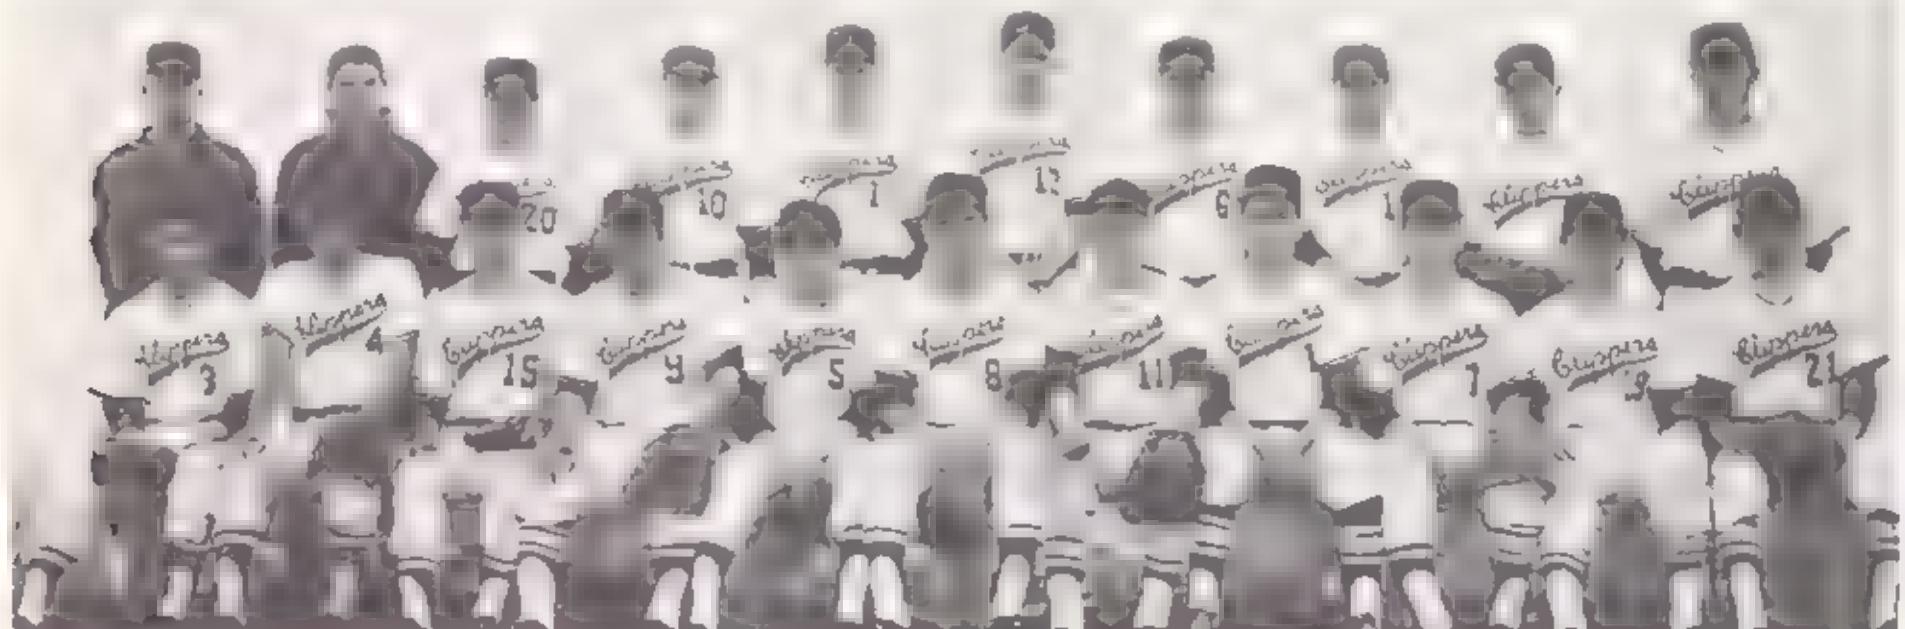

This winning streak was ended by defeats in return games against Burrillville and Woonsocket. The Clippers then closed out the season impressively by shutting out Sacred Heart in the final game.

During the season the team provided many exciting moments for supporting spectators. Leading pitchers were John Jackson and Bradford Dean; Cumberland's hitting stars were John Gomes and Donald Seaton, All Blackstone Valley Team selection.

Because many underclassmen already have starting positions on the team, a look into the future is bright. However, the loss of the ability and experience of such seniors as Richard Sutcliffe, Kevin Kenyon, and Captain Michael Dufort will be felt in the upcoming season.

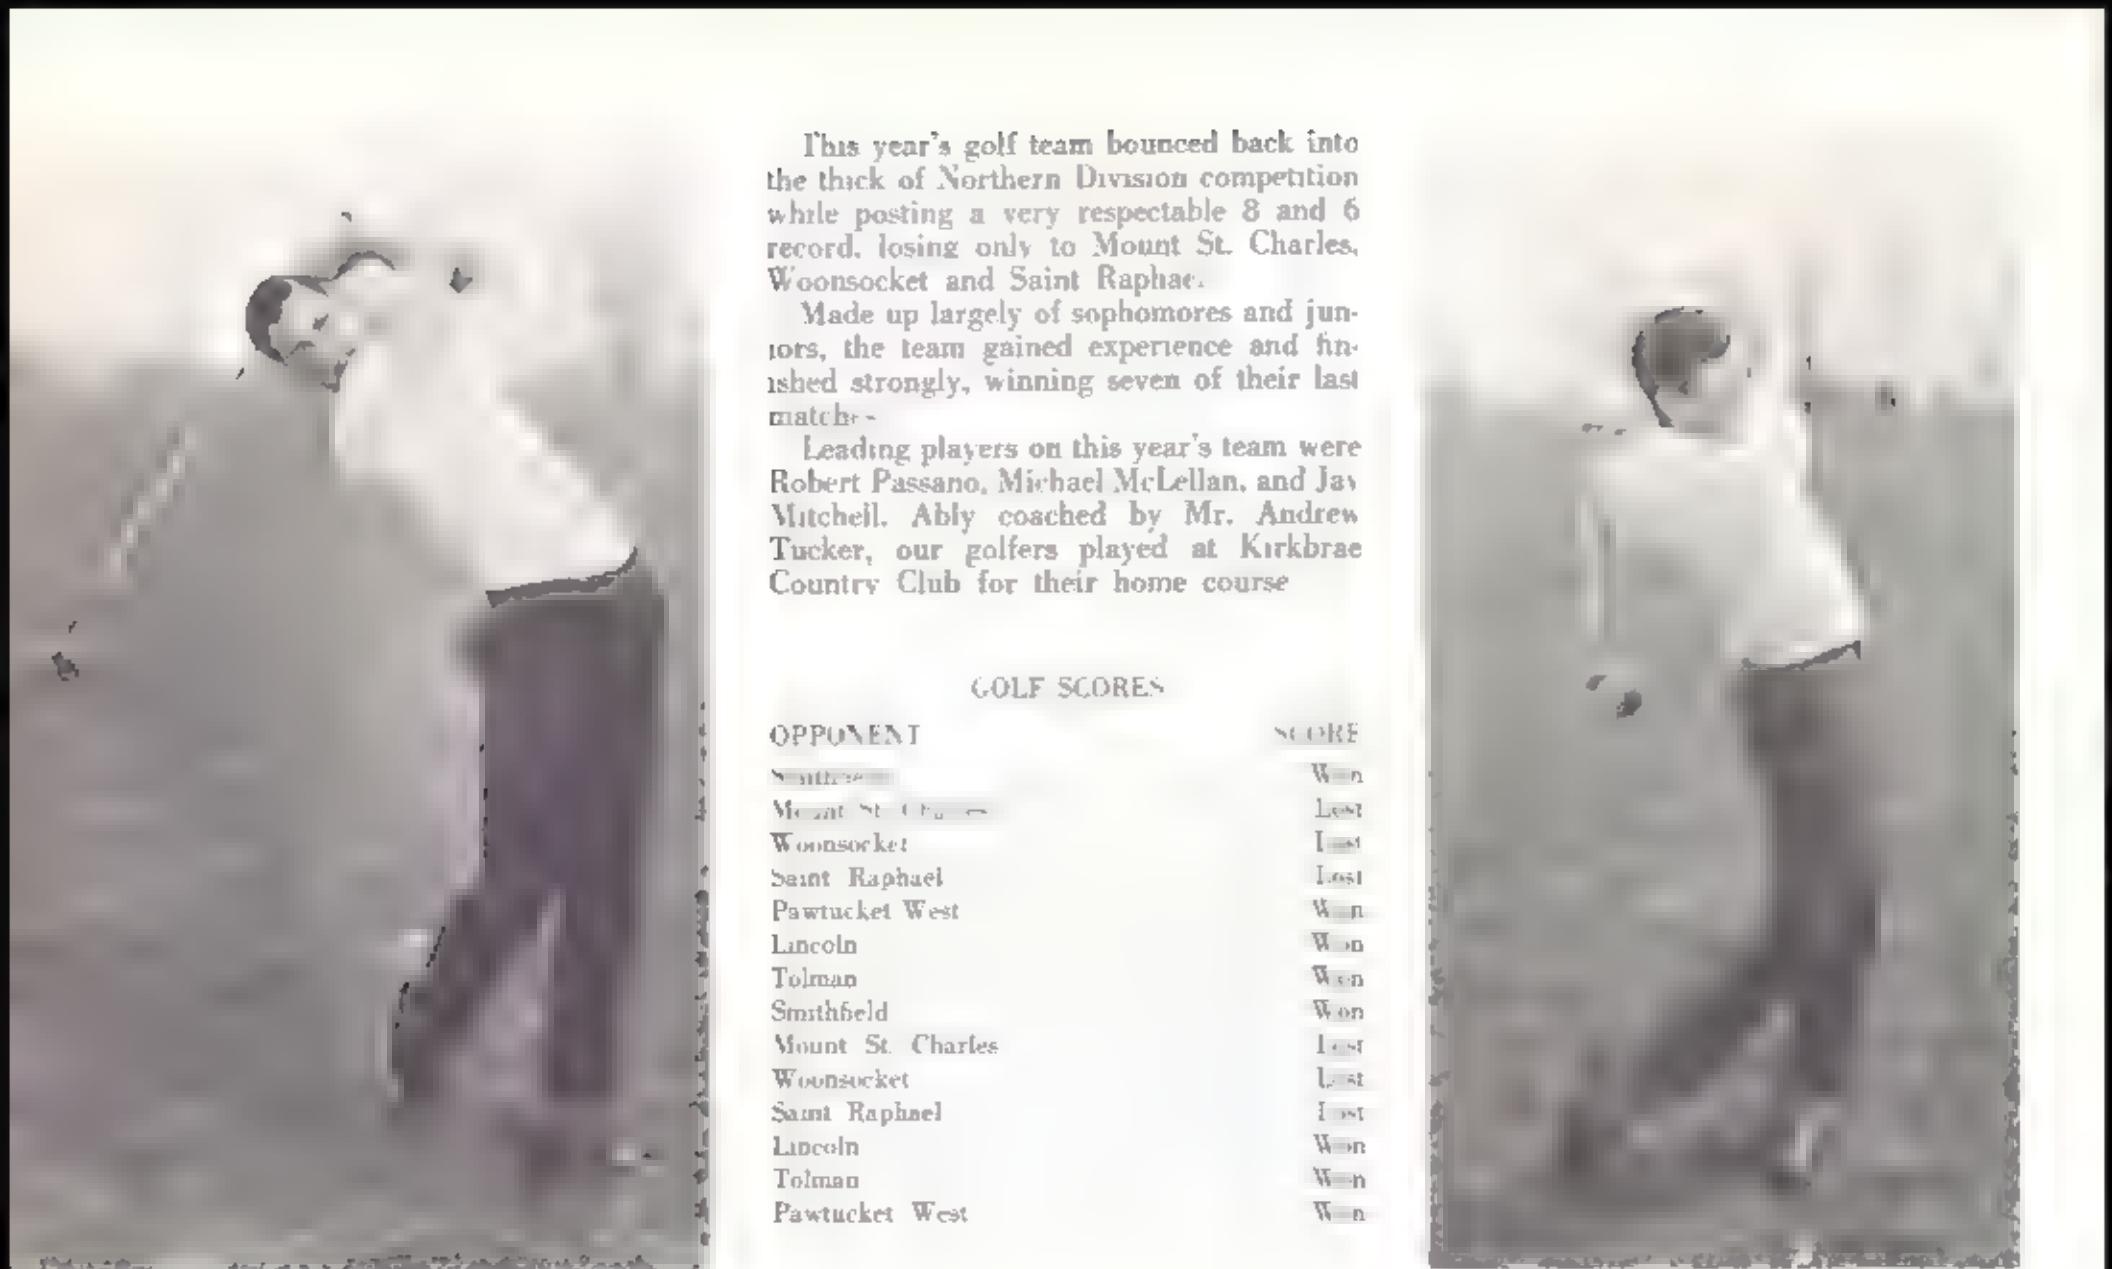

In a full slate of twelve games, Cumberland's junior varsity baseball team tabulated an impressive record of nine wins, two losses, and one tie. Outstanding players showing promise for next year's varsity squad are Thomas O'Connor, Thomas Goryl, Michael Coleman, and Kenneth Milligan.

To build a reputation, one must start early. Obviously this was the belief of our freshman baseball squad. Under the able supervision of Coach Joseph Dragon, the newcomers made themselves known throughout the school and the league. Losing only one game during the entire season, the freshmen skillfully turned back nine competitors before entering the championship play-offs. After defeating their first opponent, North Kingstown, the freshmen entered the semifinal round, but were abruptly disqualified from the championships. Nonetheless these boys, through their achievements, will provide valuable additions to future teams.

This year's golf team bounced back into the thick of Northern Division competition while posting a very respectable 8 and 6 record, losing only to Mount St. Charles, Woonsocket and Saint Raphael.

Made up largely of sophomores and juniors, the team gained experience and finished strongly, winning seven of their last matches.

Leading players on this year's team were Robert Passano, Michael McLellan, and Jay Mitchell. Ably coached by Mr. Andrew Tucker, our golfers played at Kirkbrae Country Club for their home course.

Utilizing more than the usual hard core of good athletes, Coach Gederman produced a solid team of talented track stars. In Class B competition Mr. Gederman's boys posted an impressive 8-4 won-lost record.

Fred Gaschen took first place in the mile run at the Class B Championships. Senior Charles Underwood was the top man in the Clippers' weight division, backed by Underclassmen Frank Bettuzzi and Glenn McCusker.

Cumberland can look forward to greater things from such able runners as Brad Jenkins, Richard McLaughlin, Fred Gaschen, Carl Cooke, and Kevin Crook.

DURING THE COURSE of the evening, couples enjoy refreshments in the foyer at the Junior Prom.

Despite a late start, the 1966 Junior Prom committee had developed their chosen theme to perfection by the thirteenth of May—the impression of "Ebb Tide" was complete.

The decorating crew created a giant sand castle for the gym floor; sea gulls hung from the foyer ceiling and colorful, three-dimensional fish dangled similarly in the gymnasium.

The usual array of cookies, brownies, and punch sustained the couples while they danced to music by the Fontaines. Later in the evening, Mr. John DeGoes highlighted the musical entertainment with his vocal rendition of "Ebb Tide."

In climax, class president Glenn McCusker crowned Kathy McCourt prom queen. The royal court, consisting of Marilyn Preston, Jane Ward, Audrey Casci, and Janice Palin, stood nearby as Kathy reigned from Neptune's throne.

Soon after, most of the couples departed for the Sheraton Biltmore, where a midnight dinner awaited them.

At seventy-second graduation, 315 Seniors receive diplomas

TRADITIONALLY THE HIGHLIGHT of the Senior Reception is the Grand March enables parents to see each couple as they pass by.

TRANSFORMING THE SENIOR RECEPTION into a surprise anniversary party for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hogan is class president Mark Oakley.

Senior Reception at King Philip Ballroom is

COUPLES DANCING IN THE main ballroom and also on the adjoining terrace added to the beauty of the Reception

Weeks before most seniors began thinking about the reception, committees started planning the gala event to be held Thursday night, May 26, 1966, at the King Philip Ballroom. Pat Mercier worked out most of the last minute details, while Christine Stuczyk and her committee prepared invitations for the teachers and school committee members.

Before dinner many of the couples were photographed by Mr. Rowbottom of Kenrow Studios.

Everything seemed to be progressing as it has in the past; however, after the desert had been served, the lights faded, the orchestra began playing the "Anniversary Waltz," and a three-foot cake with the inscription, "Happy Anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hogan from the Class of 1966" was brought to the table.

At 9:00 p.m. parents and friends began arriving at the King Philip to watch the traditional Grand March and to hear Mr. DeGoes sing "The Shadow of Your Smile" and "Moon River."

ADDING to the enjoyment of the evening with his well-appreciated songs was Mr. Jim DeGoes.

GALE READ accepts the Best Girl Student Award from Miss Margaret Cullen

Class Night was held in the Cumberland High School gymnasium on June 13, 1960. This traditional ceremony is held mainly to honor seniors for their arts and achievements during the past four years. The program commenced with David Ferreira extending a warm welcome to parents and guests. This was followed with the class history read by Maria Carvalho, a vocal solo by Mary Howes, and announcement of the class superlatives by Susan Aldworth.

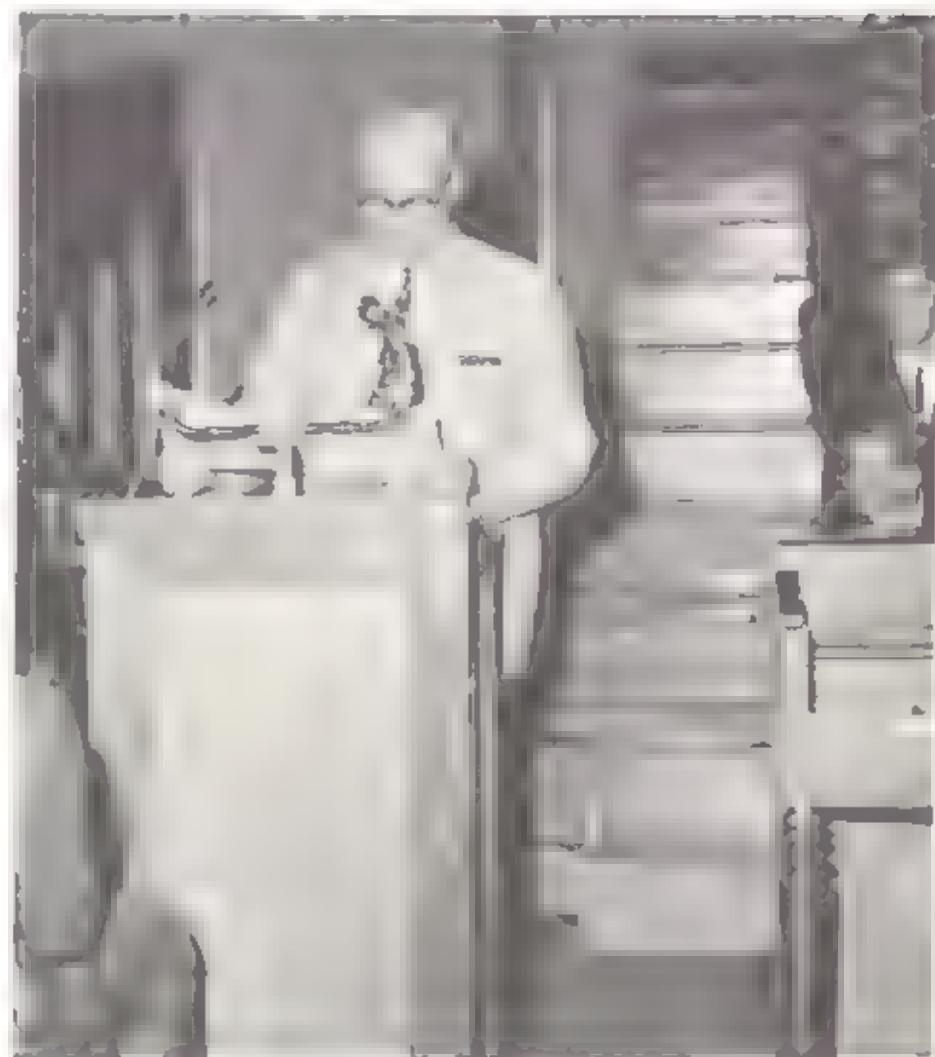

The serious side of the night was forgotten for a moment as two skits depicting "A Day at C.H.S." delighted the audience. Frank Lind and David Karbonik directed the humorous satire which touched upon some of the treasured moments experienced by the students in the past. Mr. Skahan then introduced club moderators and athletic coaches who presented the different awards. The major awards were given to Gale Read for top ranking student, George Jones, best athlete, and Richard Sutcliffe, best student athlete. After the final award was given out, Robert Lafond sang a solo after which Donald Fleurv delivered the farewell speech. The program concluded when the Senior Class sang the Class Ode.

June 17, 1966, is Commencement Day for seniors

PRESENTING THE Commencement Address is U. S. Senator Claiborne Pell.

On Friday evening, June 17, 1966, Cumberland's 314 Seniors were graduated at outdoor commencement exercises. After the processional march, Class President Mark Oakley led the seniors in a prayer and Mary Howes sang a hymn. Principal Robert G. Condon then introduced U. S. Senator Claiborne Pell, who gave the main address.

Following a hymn sung by the whole class, Mr. Thomas Skahan presented 59 seniors with scholarship awards, amounting to over $110,000. At this time Justine Banik received the Pell History Award personally from the senator.

School committee chairman Louis Kolodziej and Miss Margaret Cullen presented diplomas. Gale Read gave the valedictory address and the singing of the class ode brought the program to a close.

CLASS ODE CLASS OF 1966

Oh, Alma Mater Cumberland
Our hearts we give to thee
Beneath your banner blue and white
With minds forever free
The hands that shaped our destiny
Our hearts will hold so dear
We owe you reverent gratitude
As new horizons near
To North or South to East or West
As we go on our way
To Cumberland we pledge our best
On graduation day.
